ENGLISH MAKES THREAT OF ARLIN SENSATION

DISTRICT ATTORNEY MAY TAKE UP GIRL MYSTERY

"As soon as I get a little more evidence in the Arlin case," said William E. English today, "I will present the facts connected with the girl's disappearance to the district attorney."

It is English who has repeatedly asserted that he knows where Eleanor Arlin now is. He says she is confined in a sanitarium, and is a victim of suicidal mania. He has convinced friends and relatives of the girl that he is correct.

"When the facts come out," he added today, "they will cause a tremendous sensation.

"Let it be distinctly understood there is no slightest reflection on Miss Arlin. Her it was another person, who had been causing her some sorry, who was the fundamental cause of her disappearance.

"I showed Mrs. Calvin Gould, the girl's aunt, a bit of writing that proved to her I know where the girl is. She wishes me to act for the family now."

Mrs. Jane Arlin has started for Boston, having finally decided to come here from her home in Colebrook, N. H., to conduct a personal search for her daughter.

Investigators claimed today to have succeeded in proving that Mr. English is at least mistaken in believing he knows where Miss Arlin is.

A report was circulated that her body had been found. He is said then to have called up a Brookline sanitarium from a pay station, asking if all the patients there were accounted for.

Then, it is claimed, he told the investigators that he had called up the sanitarium where Miss Arlin is.

The number he had called up was

GOVERNOR IS CONFINED TO ROOM BY COLD

Governor Walsh is ill at his apartments in the Hotel Lenox with a severe cold, and, it was said early this afternoon, may not come to the State House for a day or two.

The Governor was taken with a chill on Monday. He was seen by the house physician, against whose advice Governor Walsh went out for the evening to keep his social engagements. Today the Hotel Lenox medical man put his foot down and the Governor of the Commonwealth, like a bad boy, had to "stay in."

BRAVES BID $25,000 FOR CUB

..NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—James E. Gaffney, owner of the Boston Braves, today confirmed the report that he had offered $25,00 to C. W. Murphy of the Chicago Cubs for Johnny Evers. "If Manager Stallings is able to get Evers for $25,000 it will be money well spent," said Gaffney.

Johnny Evers, the crooked manager of the Chicago Cubs, was the storm centre of a big baseball battle today.

Right on the heels of the fining of Evers, Manager George Stallings of the Braves came to the front today with an offer of $25,000 for the red haired ex-manager.

Stallings announced that he had high hopes of landing Evers for Boston, that he would place him at third base and that this would give the Boston Nationals the strongest infield in the National League.

At the same time the Federal League put forth its tentacles in an effort to bring Evers within the pale of the "outlaw" organization.

OTHERS WANT HIM.

Also Brooklyn and Philadelphia of the National League got into the race for Evers.

Then came the report that Cincinnati is out to land Evers. This led to a situation which has given fans all over the country the greatest stir in years.

This afternoon Stallings announced that he hoped to come to an agreement with Murphy before night over his proposition to bring Evers to Boston.

Meanwhile word came from Chicago that the Federal League club after saying that Orator Murphy has made the mistake of his life in fining Evers, declared that he does everything aside to permit Evers to become manager of the "Fed" organization in Chicago.

BOUND TO GET HIM.

From his hotel in New York Stallings sent wire after wire to Orator Murphy today.

"I intend to land Johnny Evers for the Braves," said Stallings with determination.

Stallings further announced that he would play Evers at third base if his $25,000 offer is accepted. The Braves' manager declared that the addition of Evers would give the Boston Nationals the best infield in the National League, and would put the pennant within easy reach of the Braves.

Which news, when it went up and down the rank and file of fans today, evoked all sorts of baseball enthusiasm and end of anti-season "dope."

Here's how Stallings says his infield will look after he gets Evers—he feels pretty certain he is going to succeed.

Schmidt will stick at first.

Captain Bill Sweeney will do his usual stellar work at second.

"Rabbit" Maranville will continue to perform his star part at short. AND—

Red-topped Johnny Evers will hold down third bag.

How does Evers feel this morning at home in Troy?

JOHNNY IS WILLING.

Well, Johnny, like Perlee, "is willin'"—very much so.

POPE BLESSES WORLD TOURING BALL PLAYERS

ROME, Feb. 11.—The members of the New York National League baseball team and those of the Chicago American League team, who are touring the world, were received in audience today by Pope Pius X. The Pope bestowed his blessing upon the players.

The great Cathedral of St. Peter's was the object of special interest by all the tourists, and all of the party made a visit there at some time during the day.

The Coliseum was also a popular place for the tourists, and we have all visited the noted Catacombs of Callistus.

$10,000 Attachment on Boston & aMine

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—It became known today that Supreme Court Justice Giegerich here had granted an attachment for $10,000 against the Boston & Maine Railroad, in first suit brought by a holder of the $10,000,000 worth of notes that become payable February 2.

A majority of the holders agreed on an extension to June 2, but the executors of the estate of Robert S. Blumenthal decided to bring suit.

English Girl Come to Marry Ranchman

To Probe Rates on Maine Central

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—The interstate Commerce Commission today ordered an investigation into the transportation charges over the Maine Central railroad respecting shipments of lumber to various destinations in New England. The territory affected extends from east of the Boston & Maine throughout every state of New England. At present it is said that lumber rates from the Maine woods to the extreme southwestern part of New England are excessive.

OFFICIAL REPORT TO CURLEY PROVES AMERICAN BUILDING NOT A FIRE TRAP

Mayor Curley made public this afternoon the report of Acting Building Commissioner John M. Minton on the condition of the building from which the Boston AMERICAN is published.

And Mr. Minton's official report very positively says that the AMERICAN building IS NOT A FIRE TRAP, as Mayor Curley many times said it was during the campaign.

It will be remembered that Curley said in a recent issue of the AMERICAN building "when he became Mayor and the AMERICAN very cordially invited him to go over it in detail.

Almost the first official act of Mayor Curley was to order the Building Commissioner to make a thorough investigation of the AMERICAN building. Half a dozen building inspectors worked day and night on this investigation.

The official report of Mayor Curley's OWN investigators gives the lie to Curley's absurd statements that the "AMERICAN BUILDING IS A FIRE TRAP."

We ask our readers to study this report carefully and learn for themselves just how foolishly Mayor Curley can act when he tries to revenge himself upon a great newspaper because it refused to support him in a campaign.

Here is the report:

INSPECTOR'S FULL REPORT ON AMERICAN BUILDING

Mayor James M. Curley,
City Hall, Boston.

Dear Sir—In accordance with your request to me on the 5th inst., directing me to make an investigation and submit a report as to the condition of safeguards for the protection of the occupants of building at 30 Summer street in the event of fire, I beg to say that I have made an investigation to be made by inspectors in the Keystone Division of the Building Department, and submit the following report.

The building at 30 Summer street is occupied by the Boston American Publishing Company, which also occupies the buildings 297-305 Washington street, the basement, first and second stories of 294-296 Devonshire street, and the basement and first story of 8-16 Winthrop square.

I find that as recommended of the aforesaid premises are ample and in accordance with the requirements and was approved by the owners of the several properties concerned under date of January 16, 1913. Only additional egress was required, these requirements were complied with, and there is on the Devonshire street side of building a new fire escape from the first floor to the sidewalk.

NOTE BY EDITOR—The reader will observe that this change WAS MADE IN JANUARY, 1913, and not in January, 1 13, when Curley, the candidate for Mayor, says the building 297-305 Washington street, the basement, first and second stories of 294-296 Devonshire street, and the basement and first story of 8-16 Winthrop square.

obtained. It is claimed, and the officials of the sanitarium interviewed, will denied that Miss Arlin was a patient at the institution.

Early today English made this statement in writing over his signature:

"I called on the place where Miss Arlin is from a Brookline Village drug store at 8:40 p. m. last night, and found that Miss Arlin was still there." He added that he had put the investigators, who now claim to have proved he is mistaken, off the track by a ruse.

PAID FOR BOOKS.

It became known today that one of Miss Arlin's last acts before her disappearance was to mail a money order for $20 in part payment for a "five-foot shelf of books," asking for a detailed statement of the balance of her account.

This, together with the fact that she left considerable sum of money in her room, is taken as evidence that she had no suicidal intent at the time.

She explained in the letter that she would pay the balance for the books a little later.

Dr. J. Rogers, the Brookline dentist, whose wife is Miss Arlin's cousin, has declared he has no faith in Secretary English's statements. Mrs. Calvin Gould, Miss Arlin's aunt, says Secretary English of the Hospital Reform Association has told her "where Mertie is staying."

"Mertie is submitting to treatment in a sanitarium voluntarily," declared Mrs. Gould.

Secretary William E. English of the Massachusetts Hospital Reform Association has told me where she is.

"I have not given the word as to her whereabouts but he showed me material proofs that have dispelled all my doubts and fears.

"Miss Arlin is confined in a sanitarium in Greater Boston."

The reassuring statement from Mrs. Gould, who leaves today for her home in Detroit, followed a lengthy conference between herself and Mr. English, which took place at No. 6 Hall avenue, where Mrs. Gould was accommodated by her nephew, Claude Day, of No. 37 Intervale road, Wallaston, and was connected with Mr. English nearly two hours.

WILL WRITE TO MOTHER.

At the end of that time Mrs. Gould said: "I'm perfectly all right and I am well pleased with what I have learned. I have more confidence than ever in the English family and tell me where our Mertie is staying, but he proved to me beyond the shadow of a doubt that he was telling me the truth.

"After what Dr. Rogers told me I was torn with alternating hopes and fears about Mertie. I came to Mr. English's office with the feeling that I low ebb. Now I feel at least 40 per cent. better. I have heard all that I want to know and Mr. English answered all my questions in a perfectly satisfactory manner.

"I shall immediately write to my sister, Mrs. Jane Arlin, at Calebrook, N. H., that what Mr. English has written her is correct, and that her daughter is safe. Mr. English surely knew what he was talking about from the very first.

"AFFECTION VERGES ONE."

"Mertie is submitting to treatment voluntarily, and in no way held anywhere against her will.

"Mr. English told me why it is held that I should not see Mertie in her present excitable state, and his explanation satisfied me perfectly. I shall not endeavor to see Mertie until she is cured. Her affection is purely nervous, and it is best for her sake that no one should see her under the circumstances. I am resigned to that.

"The sanitarium in which she is confined is a semi-philanthropic institution and, now that we know where she is, there will be no trouble about supplying funds for her keep until the girl is cured."

ELOPING NEPHEW OF MRS. VANDERBILT TO HAVE KNOT TIED OVER

Arthur Gwynne, nephew of Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, and his bride, who was Miss Anna Regina Kenna, from a snapshot made expressly for the American yesterday.

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—Arthur Gwynne, the twenty-one-year-old nephew of Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, who eloped on Monday night with Miss Anna Regina Kenna, the sixteen-year-old daughter of a retired Brooklyn plumbing contractor, will start with his bride this evening on a belated honeymoon.

The young couple surprised the parents of the bride by announcing they had been married in Jersey City by a justice of the peace. They received the parental blessing, but it was decided to postpone the honeymoon until they could be married again in the Catholic church, of which the bride is a communicant.

Arrangements were made at once for a dispensation, and the ceremony will be performed at 7:30 this evening at St. Teresa's Church by the Rev. Ward Meehan. No explanation has been vouchsafed by either bride or bridegroom for the civil ceremony accepting it was the outcome of a lightning courtship that began a week ago.

Gwynne met Miss Kenna for the first time on February 4. He was brought to the home by Russell Gulf, whom her friends had already decided upon as the "lucky man." They were three of a party to attend a dance. Gwynne and Miss Kenna tangoed most of the evening. Then he saw her home. He called the next evening upon her, and the next and the next, and on the ninth Miss Kenna was Mrs. Gwynne.

LIBERALS TO FORCE ISSUE ON HOME RULE BILL

LONDON, Feb. 11.—In unmistakable terms Premier Asquith threw down today the gauge of battle to the Tory-Orange opponents to home rule for Ireland.

At the close of a Cabinet Council which lasted two hours, the Right Hon. Sir John Allsebrook Simon, as spokesman for the ministry, rose in the House of Commons to take up the home rule debate.

Answering the Tory challenge that the government dissolve Parliament and appeal to the country in a general election, Sir John Simon said:

"The government will adhere to the statement made yesterday by the Prime Minister (Mr. Asquith). The Cabinet has decided to press the home rule bill to passage without delay."

Loud cries of "Hear, Hear" rang from the Liberal and Irish benches while answering cries of defiance were raised by the Tories.

It is known that at the Cabinet meeting the Prime Minister and his colleagues went over every detail of the situation, and a definite course was decided upon. What this course is to be was immediately placed before the House of Commons by Sir John Simon, who went directly to the House from the Premier's residence.

High excitement prevails all over London and the bulletin boards are surrounded by great crowds, anxiously scanning the latest news of the acute situation.

The Tory opposition is now faced by the plain fact that the government means business. The greatest parliamentary battle of centuries has begun.

Sir Edward Carson, the Ulster leader, took up the debate in favor of the opposition's amendment. He was cheered for several minutes when he arose to speak.

Sir Edward opened his speech by pointing out the gravity of the situation. He declared that the references made in King George's address of yesterday as to domestic relations were the gravest ever heard in an address from the throne.

ULSTER RENEWS THREAT.

Carson predicted that the Province of Ulster would fight to the end of its resources against domination by any Parliament organized at Dublin. Unionist cheers resounded through out the chamber when he made this fiery sentement:

"If the government attempts to draw Ulster into a Dublin Parliament I will persist with the people of Ulster in their policy, regardless of personal consequences."

Concluding his speech Sir Edward said that Ulster did not want any concessions.

"Ulster wants to be left alone," said he. "The people of Ulster will never take an responsibility for the present bill no matter how altered. British Unionists will support Ulster resistance to the bitter end."

John Redmond, Irish leader, took up the debate to answer Carson.

DERIDES "CIVIL WAR."

"The Irish Nationalists fully share the desire for a peaceful settlement of this question," said he. "But we do not share the Unionists' tragic view of the possibilities of civil war."

Earl Loreburn spoke in a spirit of compromise when home rule debate was resumed in the House of Peers, saying he believes the country desires to have the question settled now by friendly agreement.

WALSH URGES ONE BOARD FOR INSTITUTIONS

Governor Walsh sent to the Legislature today a strong recommendation that all the institutions of the Commonwealth having to do with the insane, the defective, the delinquent and the dependent be placed in the hands of "one central organization."

This recommendation, if adopted, will sound the death knell of the present commission or board of trustees in Massachusetts.

In 1914 the maintenance of the state institutions involved in the plan of reorganization will cost at least $9,000,000.

Coming from the Commission on Economy and Efficiency to the Governor, who had himself discussed the subject in his inaugural, the recommendations created a sensation.

The commission urges:

A board of five Commissioners of Public Institutions, to take over all the institutions now under the State Board of Charity, the State Board of Insanity and the Prison Commission. Each commissioner to receive $1,000 a year. Duty: To formulate the day-work plan, allowed contract figuring which was practically certain to bring the work to the Charlestown yard.

A director of Institutions, to have direction over the department and its institutions, including all matters involved in their administration, operation and maintenance.

This Director of Public Institutions—term indefinite and salary to be determined—shall be authorized to appoint:

Four executive secretaries.

A business agent.

Superintendents of the various institutions.

It will be the duty of the Director to provide a proper plan of organization, power care and treatment, a central purchasing agency, a uniform and adequate system of accounts and reports, better oversight of the farms connected with the institutions and a standardizing of building operations.

The four executive secretaries are to carry out such directions and orders as may be issued by the Director. Subject to the Director they are to have "full authority in their respective divisions and institutions." They are to "consult with, advise and direct the superintendents of the institutions as to proper methods of procedure and administration."

The report outlines the division of work among the proposed executive secretaries.

"The work of these several secretaries would be primarily the direction of affairs in the various institutions, assigned somewhat as follows:

EXECUTIVE SECRETARY FOR INSANE.

Boston State Hospital.
Danvers State Hospital.
Foxboro State Hospital.
Northampton State Hospital.
Taunton State Hospital.
Waltham State Hospital.
Worcester State Colony.
Gardner State Colony.
Medfield State Asylum.
Worcester State Asylum.
School for the Feeble-Minded.
Wrentham State School.
Monson State Hospital for Epileptics.

EXECUTIVE SECRETARY FOR HOSPITALS AND SANATORIA.

Penikese Hospital.
Lakeville State Sanatorium.
North Reading State Sanatorium.
Rutland State Sanatorium.
Westfield State Sanatorium.
Massachusetts Hospital School.
State Infirmary.
Norfolk State Hospital for Inebriates.

EXECUTIVE SECRETARY FOR PRISONS AND CORRECTIONAL INSTITUTIONS.

Present work, in part, of the office force and agents of the Prison Commission:

Industrial School for Boys.
Industrial School for Girls.
Lyman School for Boys.
State Prison.
Prison Camp and Hospital.
Massachusetts Reformatory.
Reformatory for Women.
State Farm.

EXECUTIVE SECRETARY FOR CHARITY.

"The work under this official would be in a large part such as is now conducted directly by the Board of Charity. This is of itself a large undertaking, appropriation for which during 1913 was $966,187, and the estimates for 1914 are $1,001,982."

The "business agent" is to appoint necessary assistants, including a purchasing agent, "who shall purchase all goods for the department, including the institutions."

CONSIDER SHIP JOB FOR BOSTON YARD CERTAIN

While waiting for that supply ship construction contract, which is confidently expected, the Charlestown Navy Yard will get two other jobs, announced by Secretary Daniels of the Navy in Washington today.

Dispatches from Washington say that Secretary Daniels has accepted the bid of the Charlestown yard for the construction of a building to house the new heating plant of the U. S. Naval Hospital at Chelsea.

The Secretary has also ordered the cruiser Vesuvius to the Charlestown yard for overhauling. He said that he hopes this action will irelieve the labor conditions at the yard.

In reference to the supply ship construction contract—a $1,000,000 job which means a tremendous amount to Charlestown—the Washington dispatches said that the matter will not officially decided until a late conference today. But announcement was made yesterday that the decision of the yard workers to accept a piece-work plan, instead of a day-work plan, allowed contract figuring which was practically certain to bring the work to the Charlestown yard.

Later two steel coal barges are to be built, at about $25,000 each, when the matter arrives. This will call for about 150 men in addition to the 1,200 now working.

But the moment the supply ship contract is awarded the first thing to do will be to provide a shipbuilding ways, which will cost $100,000 or more, and will let 400 to 500 men work for six months.

When the shipbuilding ways is finished, 1,400 extra men—or practically all the "eligibles" not working now will be put on.

Keep School Children's Heads Clean

Don't quit until they have cut with a fine comb or razor if with pyramon drops. As a preventive and cure, this simple but safe remedy, which is recommended by physicians and health authorities should be followed by every mother of children. Pyramon drops are sold by druggists everywhere. Directions, full formula and medical opinions made especially for this purpose, will be sent free to any one who writes for them. The drops will form a thick lather, which should be allowed to remain fifteen minutes or more—in bad cases it should remain over night—rinse off with water, and dry and comb the hair. Following this course every week will keep the head perfectly clear of nits. Individual packages are sold at 25 cents, and will serve for most ordinary cases. If with your first purchase, present No. 5 of the coupons printed in this paper, you will receive a free sample of Pyramon Tooth Powder sufficient for several months' use. Mothers, you owe it to your children. Do not take any substitute, as Fitzgerald Soap Co., Collingswood, N. J., will send you this soap by mail, postpaid, on receipt of price.

WHIPPED GIRL OF 19 TO KEEP HER AT HOME

Mary Barrett is just nineteen, a blue-eyed blonde, graceful and pretty.

Mary's mother is dead. Her father, Jim Barrett, works nights for the Boston & Albany and never would have known how late his self-willed girl stayed out at night with the boys if the neighbors hadn't told him. When he found out about it he "licked" Mary, as he freely told Judge Barnes in East Boston District Court today.

Barrett had the girl in court as a "stubborn child." The father described himself as a plain, hard-working man. He has kept a home for his family at No. 46 Everett street, East Boston, for years. Barrett said he supported his daughter comfortably.

"Neighbors told me," he said, "that Mary was out with fellows late. I told her she'd have to stop it. But the climax came last week when Mary stayed away two days. I found her. She told me she had been with a girl friend."

"Why did you stay away from home?" Judge Barnes asked.

"Father chastised me," said Mary.

"Chastised you, how?" queried the Judge.

"I licked her, Your Honor, 'broke in Barrett, "I did it because I wanted her to be brought up a good girl, and what I heard of the crowd she's been chumming around with I didn't like. That's the reason I always kept after her."

Mary: "I'll go home if he'll stop chastising me."

"I never chastised her," said Barrett, "only when I thought best, when I found she wasn't doing the right thing."

Judge Barnes continued the case for a month, with strict warning to Mary to stay in nights and to keep quiet, else he will "dispose of the case differently."

With this hint at the Reform School Mary followed father out of court.

olds N. H. Student Victim of Prank

DETROIT, Feb. 11.—"I believe my friend, Clyde L. Berkey of Claremont, N. H., a student at the University of Michigan, who was found dead in a gas-filled room, was the victim of 'college prank,'" declared Charles A. Berkey, today. "I do not believe that failure to pass his examinations could have so depressed him as to cause him to take his own life."

Preserve Wilson Smile for Century

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—Plans to preserve for posterity the smile of President Wilson were completed today by the Modern Historical Association. Films of the President will be made and placed in the Pyramid of Cheops and in the vaults of the New York Public Library to be flashed on the screen a hundred years hence.

Hold Two for Death of Chinese Merchant

ST. ALBANS, Vt., Feb. 11.—Elmer Bushlow and William Dennis are under arrest here on the charge of killing Chin Kim, a Chinese storekeeper, last Friday. A stove found in the store is said by the police to have furnished the clew which led to the arrest of the men. It is alleged that robbery was the motive of the crime.

MISS "BETTY" PORTER, leader in the Vincent Club theatricals, who will take part in the "Model Movies."

Miss "Betty" Porter, one of the leaders in Vincent Club theatricals, and Miss Phyllis Robbins, also prominent in that exclusive society organization, will make their debut next Friday in a moving picture show.

That is—these two will take part on the program of the model "movies" which the Brookline Friendly Society is putting on at Union Hall on High street, Brookline. Miss Robbins will sing and Miss Porter will play the violin.

Miss Frances Rocci, the interpreter of folk dancing, in whom Mrs. James J. Storrow is interested, will appear. The "model movies" are given under supervision of Miss Maisel Stedman and Mrs. Henry Preston White, in an effort to attract the Brookline children to wholesome entertainment in their home town, rather than have them go to the city.

THE FINEST LAXATIVE IN THIRTY CENTURIES

Kellogg's Tasteless Castor Oil Is Truly Tasteless—Not Flavored or Disguised.

For 3,000 years castor oil has been the world's best laxative, but until now an offensive, sickening taste has limited its use. For 3,000 years chemists have tried to remove the taste.

Kellogg's Tasteless Castor Oil is just what the name means—a pure, clear, refined oil without any taste. It is the newest product of Spencer Kellogg & Sons of Buffalo, large refiners of vegetable oils.

Anybody can disguise the taste of castor oil by mixing it with alcohol, wintergreen, peppermint or other flavors but it remained for the Kelloggs to keep the oil pure and make it tasteless.

Kellogg's Castor Oil works even better than the old, evil dose, without pain or griping. Children take it easily.

Sold now in all drug stores, 25c and 50c. Ask for Kellogg's Tasteless and look for the trade mark on the label—a green castor leaf, bearing the Kellogg signature. Made only by Spencer Kellogg & Sons, Inc., Buffalo, N. Y., oil refiners.

GRILL BUTLER IN STEADMAN DEATH PROBE

GREENWICH, Feb. 11.—Sheriff Andrew Talbot, who is in charge the investigation of the death of William A. Stedman, learned today that there were sounds of a struggle in the cellar just before the wealthy New York cotton broker was found fatally wounded. At the same time it found by inspection that the police of the cellar was so low that no man would have had great difficulty in striking himself with a hatchet with enough force to fracture his skull.

A curious discrepancy in the story of John Chapman, the negro butler, supplied a new feature at the outset of today's investigation.

In questioning Chapman the tenth time the police were told that on Sunday morning Chapman made two trips to the cellar. He said that he did not see Mr. Stedman on either trip. At the first trip he said he heard a rustling around as though there might have been a scuffle. On the second, he said that he saw a pool of blood and hurried back upstairs.

"When you went upstairs on the second trip you said that Mr. Stedman was dying," said the detective. "How did you know he was dying if you did not see him at all?"

"I saw the pool of blood and thought that something must have happened."

This discrepancy led the police to ask questions about the butler's antecedents. He told them that he came from Aller, Va., and then went to Philadelphia. He said he left Philadelphia April 21 and went to Hartford, Ct., to see a brother. The brother, he added, persuaded him to remain and he answered an advertisement which Mr. Stedman put in the paper and got the job as butler.

The police of Virginia, Philadelphia and Hartford were asked to verify the story.

CAVALIERI AND HUSBAND HERE: MEET EX-WIFE

Lucien Muratore, the tenor, remained for the first time today who he kept his marriage to Lina Cavalieri, the singer and stage beauty, secret from July to until a few days ago.

"You see," he explained "we could not bear the idea of having our marriage used as a means of advertising. It was then practically impossible to operate singe in America and we determined I should not begin here as Lina Cavalieri's husband."

"SACRED TO US BOTH"

"It was all too sacred to us both. We were too deeply happy and we felt that after all it was our own affair and no one else's. The other night in Philadelphia we decided there was no longer any reason for keeping our marriage a secret and we are glad to have the whole world know of our happiness."

Muratore said he first met Cavalieri when she was singing the title role in a performance of "Boheme," in which he had also played the title role.

They were quietly married on July 10 in a small town in France. The ceremony was performed by the old church where Lucien received his first communion. A few of the tenor's friends were present, but not many. The honeymoon was in the unfrequented haunts of middle France. Together and then a further trip to Lake Geneva.

Muratore arrived from Philadelphia last night with two Valets and seventeen trunks, to say nothing of Mme. Cavalieri—perhaps Mme. Muratore's maid.

MEETS FORMER WIFE

At the tenor and his wife were registering at the Hotel Lenox they came upon Marguerita Gretta, the former wife of Muratore.

Muratore did not appear to be much disconcerted, but gave studious attention to the register. Mme. Gretta was quickly whisked upstairs in the elevator.

Cavalieri immediately went to her room, and stayed there all evening. She had a recurrence of an old throat affection and could not be seen.

However, her husband was seen at a rehearsal of "Carmen" at the Boston Opera House.

Fat Policemen to Get Hearing Tonight

SALEM, Feb. 11.—A public hearing, called upon the petition of 283 voters, will be given Charles E. The first of the three performances of "Alice Hanson" at Copley Hall in which society is greatly interested, is scheduled for tonight. The affair is held primarily to help forward the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, but secondarily it furnishes a medium in which society may serve an opportunity to see the debut of Alice Hanson. The beautiful young girl, whose art has created a furore in Philadelphia, will appear in a long one and contains the names of a large number of smart matrons and maidens who will be reported Thursday afternoon and Wednesday evening.

Another society event is the informal dance which will be held at the Tea Thea tonight at 8. There will be a preliminary meeting with Mrs. Hall Hammond and Mrs. Cabot as patronesses. Mrs. Horace H. Fleming and Mrs. Arthur Adams will be in charge of the affair, who are interested in the Tea Theatre—those who have helped as playgoers, subscribers or advisers—have been invited.

There was a musicale and tea at the residence of Dr. and Mrs. William Lincoln Richardson today, the proceeds of which will go to the South End Music School. The artists were Mrs. Robert G. Dunbar, Miss Mary O'Brien, Mrs. Daniel Kenitz, Rudolph Nenil and Jan DeVaan.

The dining-room of the Rev. and Mrs. Endicott Peabody at the Cogley-place tonight promises to be one of the most important society functions of the season. Covers will be laid for 140.

Hot Tea Breaks A Cold—Try This

Get a small package of Hamburg Breast Tea, or as the German folks call it, "Hamburger Brust Thee," at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teacupful at bed time. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grippe. It opens the pores, relieving congestion. Also loosens the tight, filling breaking a cold at once.

It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore harmless.

OPERATORS AND MINERS CONFER ON WAGE SCALE

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 11.—Thirty-two operators and the same number of miners met in executive session today to discuss to install the wage demands made by representatives of more than 200,000 workers in the bituminous coal fields of Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Pennsylvania. W. L. Schenick, president of the Illinois Operators' Association, and William Green of Ohio, secretary of the United Mine Workers, served as chairman and secretary respectively of today's meeting.

As they went into session the operators' representatives made no secret of fact that they would oppose the increase demanded by their employes. They asserted that they had been losing money during the past year and that it would be impossible to grant the five cents a ton increase

TAKE GRAFTON WHIPPING CASE TO GOVERNOR

Subscription papers were being circulated in Grafton today for a fund to be known as the "Chamberlain Boy Defense Fund," which followed the arousing of considerable feeling due to the horse-whipping of Alfred Chamberlain, fourteen, by the Grafton Town Hall.

The whipping was said to have been at the order of the Court, or, rather, William H. Procter, who is that on account of the boy's father that the boy should be whipped. Alfred had been charged with pulling a trolley car off the wire, and Judge Fowler and the boy's father decided with that the sooner the boy was whipped the better, which is how the chastisement came to take place in the court building.

Representative John J. Fleming of Grafton today is heading a movement to have the Chamberlains matter brought to the attention of Governor Walsh. He says of the horse whipping:

"MOST OUTRAGEOUS AFFAIR."

"This is the most outrageous affair that has ever happened to our town. Many parents have asked me to complain about it. The mores I have investigated the matter, the more I feel the need that something should be done to prevent the repetition of such cruelty.

"All that they can prove against that boy is that he jumped on the fender of the car. They can't prove he pulled the trolley off. Everyone knows this is the case.

"Then this is the first offense of the boy. If that Judge took the time to consider the matter he would have given that boy some fatherly advice in the courts, instead of inflicting such cruelty.

"The boy has much good in him. No effort had been made by the schools of this town to bring it out. The boy was into manhood. Now is to blame? In the excitement he was hurried and became on one stood in that court room can admit that the boy be given another chance he is put off with a severe whipping and then we love a feeling of hate, and in his action he carries the boy in hand."

"BRUTALLY TREATED."

"We do not intend to let this matter rest until that whipping is condemned by every self-respecting person in Grafton."

Selectman Frank S. Allen of Grafton hears the boy was cut and bruised by the whipping. He declared:

"I don't know the absolute facts in the case, but, whether they were or not, a child should be brutally treated by any court for a petty offense. This was the first conviction in court."

The action of Justice Fowler was surprising to me. It is the duty of parents to punish their children. If the Chamberlain boy lie out, bruised and marked, the assault was brutal."

Editor AMERICAN:

The members of the Boston Ministers' Meeting have passed a hearty vote of thanks to you for all your generous assistance in connection with Go-to-Church Sunday. The success of the movement was due, in very large measure, we feel, to your splendid co-operation.

Yours cordially,

HENRY FRANCIS SMITH,
Secretary-treasurer of the Boston Congregational Ministers' Meeting.

Editor AMERICAN:

Thank you very much for the splendid work you did for the Go-to-Church Day. The figures speak for themselves as to the success of it. What cannot be tabulated is the encouragement given to the pastors and all church workers, the inspiration of many who had been drifting away to return to their church, and the uplift given to all by the confession that the deep things of our religion are precious to all hearts whatever may be the outward seeming. Only those who were in the midst of the enthusiasm and friendship of the day can realize how different the churches will seem to the whole population henceforth.

We owe everything to you and to the papers of our city that co-operated with you in this movement. It brought all the people to their own churches and there was no rivalry and there are no heart burnings following. You have helped us very, very much.

W. M. TUFTS,
Pastor of the First Presbyterian Church.

Editor AMERICAN:

You deserve great credit for the push you put behind the "Go-to-Church" Sunday. It was successful to the limit. Now for the sake of the young folks who have all their lives before them, will you not start a "Go-to-Sunday School" Sunday? It will mean even more than the "Go-to-Church" Sunday did for the older folks. Think it over and any thing I can do, command me.

CHESTER R. LAWRENCE,
Supt. Dudley St. Baptist Church Sunday School.

Rub Pains From Sore, Lame Back

Rub Backache Away With Small Trial Bottle of Old "St. Jacobs Oil"

Back hurt you? Can't straighten up without feeling sudden pains, sharp aches and twinges? Now listen! That's lumbago, sciatica or maybe from a strain, and you'll get blessed relief the moment you rub your back with soothing, penetrating "St. Jacobs Oil." Nothing else takes out soreness, lameness and stiffness so quickly. You simply rub it on and out comes the pain. It is perfectly harmless and doesn't burn or discolor the skin.

Limber up! Don't suffer! Get a small trial bottle from any drug store, and after using it just once you'll forget that you ever had backache, lumbago or sciatica, because your back will never hurt or cause any more misery. It never disappoints and has been recommended for 60 years.

Mayor Opens 'Boom Boston Campaign'

Mayor Curley opens his "boom Boston campaign" in City Hall today. He has invited 200 prominent business men to meet him to devise ways and means to bring business here.

He will take further steps today toward getting 5,000 business men to contribute $1,000 each to make up a fund of $5,000,000 with which Boston might offer inducements to big business concerns to locate here. The AMERICAN has offered $1,000 toward this fund.

Banish the "Blues!"

If you have that depressed feeling it's more than likely that your blood is out of order—impoverished or poisoned.

There is only one thing that will alter your present condition—that's to restore your stomach to normal health and strength. For a weak or diseased stomach cannot make good blood. If your digestion is bad your food will not make the good blood which nourishes body, brain, heart and nerve.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery

helps the stomach to do its work naturally and properly. Stimulates the liver. The system is freed from poison. The blood is purified. Every organ is rejuvenated. Instead of the "Blues," you feel fit and strong, equal to any task or up to any pleasure.

This great remedy has proved its worth year after year for over forty years. Let it prove its worth to you. Sold by medicine dealers in tablet or liquid form or send 50c for trial box by mail.

EDISONS THRIVE ON FOOD LIMIT OF TEN OUNCES

NEW YORK, Feb. 11—Today is Thomas A. Edison's sixty-seventh birthday, and Mrs. Edison revealed to a reporter of the AMERICAN yesterday that the greatest inventor in the world has discovered a new rule of diet both for himself and her.

It is simply this: Reduce your food from 18 to 20 ounces (what the normal healthy person consumes) to 9 or 10 ounces of plain, nutritious things.

Mrs. Edison, a robust, laughing personification of health and activity, smiled broadly as she recounted her experience in living down to the food maximum standard set by her noted husband.

"Of course," she said, "Mr. Edison did not make that rule for me. He decided after many experiments that a man of keen intellect and many ideas lost ground by overworking his digestive apparatus.

"But I joined him. Gracious, how I did want to eat one of those old-fashioned, sleep-producing feasts! There were times when I am quite sure I could have eaten nine or ten pounds of food. But I did not.

"Would you believe it, I was actually gaining weight on the ten-ounce schedule? I grew stouter every day; that it was all, no I have since learned, good, firm 'fighting flesh,' as the men say.

"If I had gone back to the old three-meals-a-day, eat-all-you-wish plan I am sure by this time I would weigh at least 350 pounds. I stuck to the ten-ounce diet and felt better, slept better, thought more clearly and was twice as active.

"Of course, we eat anything we want, provided it is worth eating. But we limit the amount of everything. Our food is carefully selected and chosen with full knowledge of the properties of all foodstuffs.

"Mr. Edison was amused when I joined him in the new schedule and watched me very carefully. He thrived wonderfully. He took on no superfluous flesh, but kept to his normal healthy robustness.

"And because I was growing stout—Mr. Edison began to wonder whether I was cheating."

Boston American

The American and Pathe Freres Collaborate in a Plan to Amuse, Entertain and Educate Boston.

Here is the first of a new two-reel Pathe Freres photo play which will be presented at motion picture houses tomorrow (Thursday) for the first time. It deals with one of the grimmest industrial problems, the "fire-trap and sweated industry," and shows in graphic scenes how in one case at least retribution was visited upon the responsible person. The old Pathe favorites appear in the cast.

Every day the AMERICAN presents a fictionized version of one of the new Pathe photo plays. This one—"Broken Lives"—will be concluded tomorrow.

PART I.

"But, Mrs. Emery"—Davis stammered awkwardly—hesitated — then blundered on. "The factory is a fire trap—a pest house. Something's got to be done."

The woman was unmoved—lounged easily upon the divan and puffed at her monogrammed cigarette. "Really, Mr. Davis," she protested languidly. "Why bother me? My husband let you run the factory—why shouldn't I?"

Davis gritted his teeth and desperately urged: "For one thing—you're a woman. Your employes are dying—sick—in danger of fire or disaster. We ought to put at least a little money into repairs and construction."

She became a little stern. "What suited my husband suits me, I'm sure. Certainly, I cannot consent to any cut in the profits."

The man rose and stood stubbornly beside the table. "I'm only your manager," he began. "I haven't any right to say anything. But, Mrs. Emery, a factory like yours is a disgrace. The ventilation is bad. Dust from the machines and from the cloth flies around in the air, and there's no fresh air coming in to carry it off. The girls and the men breathe it—and it gets them.

"Leaving the fire proposition out of it—there are a dozen a year that die just from bad conditions in the factory—girls most of them—some men, with wives and children on their hands."

GEORGE DAVIS, manager of factory ..... Henry Cummings
PAUL HERZOG, factory operator ..... Harrison Ingraham

Mrs. Emery whistled, and a tiny Pomeranian, which had poked its chilly little nose through the portieres, came scrambling toward her, sprang to the divan and pawed in delighted welcome. She caught it in her arms and murmured over it in delight. Davis groaned inwardly. Then after a moment the woman looked up and saw him.

"Why, Mr. Davis," she laughed, in pretended surprise "aren't the sermon over? Run along now, please. I'm going out."

He made no move to obey.

"Why don't you resign, Mr. Davis?" she lied. "Why don't you quit me if you are dissatisfied? I won't sue on your contract."

He shook his head. "I've always worked in the factory," he declared. "It's part of me. I'm—I'm—I'm—anywhere else. She smiled. "How sentimental!

"Mrs. Emery, you've given me a new task. "Hiring is mighty silly. Can't you have one set at least?"

She was frowning now.

"Listen!" she commanded, sitting upright for the first time. "I've heard enough of your views. If he stayed at home and drank instead of drinking and carousing he would do his work and nothing else. I want to hear no more of it. Now go; I'm tired. I don't need you as an spiritual adviser."

The man picked up his hat from the table.

"All right," he replied. "I'll tell you true about Herzog—and you. But this is all I can say—I've got a fight on my hands, and if they do—it threatens a reorganization it might—embarrass you."

His voice was bitter.

"INSPECTORS ARE THERE!"

"Inspectors!" she gasped. "Of course, inspectors must come. I expect you to see that they make no trouble."

He wheeled on her sharply. "Before you mean?"

"Don't say little to me. But see that they don't make any trouble. I don't care how. Now—" She paused. The telephone had rung. She removed the receiver from its hook and listened. "Yes, yes—I'll be right down. Tell Mr. Herzog I'll be there in a moment."

She turned to Davis. "Mr. Herzog is here to see me. Please go. I have no more time to waste on you."

He lifted his shoulders in a gesture of hopeless resignation. Then he removed the receiver and rang for the butler to show him to the door.

(To be continued tomorrow).

STOMACH UPSET?

Get at the Real Cause—Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets.

That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way; when the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, away go indigestion and stomach troubles.

If you have a bad taste in your mouth, tongue coated, appetite poor, lazy, don't crave boiling, no ambition, or cursed, troubled with undigested food, you should take Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color. They do the work without griping, pain or nausea.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief and you will wake up fine. 15c and 30c per box. The Olive Tablet Company, Columbus, Ohio.

To all employers I would say: "Don't work your men seven days a week."

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—To all employers I would say: "Don't work your men seven days a week."

To all State Legislatures I would say: "Rigidly forbid the seven-day working week."

* * *

Every proposed reform intended to lighten the load of the poor world-toilers is met with the retort by reactionaries: "It can't be done." "It's impossible."

Few things are impossible once the people make up their minds to do them. The trusts have learned that. So have the railroads. So have crooked politicians.

No human being should be asked to work six days a year. A six-day working week was ordained by high authority at the dawn of civilization: "Six days shalt thou labor and do ALL thy work." To toil day after day, week after week and month after month without a respite is enslavement and ought to be forbidden.

* * *

There is room for another Lincoln in this thirty to lead millions of downtrodden toilers to freedom, to release the shackles that bind them to incessant toil.

* * *

Those who suffer most are the unfortunate hordes at the very bottom of the ladder, the unorganized, unskilled, shamefully underpaid men and women and children who are obliged to slave day in, day out, Saturday and Sunday, for the merest pittances. They are at the mercy of their employers. To them the State ought to extend a helping hand.

* * *

No one having knowledge of economics can support the doctrine of certain trade unions that as LITTLE work as possible should be performed by members. To hinder an able-bodied man from doing justice to himself, from working as zealously as he knows how, is an economic and moral crime. It stultifies a man's growth. It holds him down in the coiling and prevents him from reaching his full stature mentally. It kills the joy he ought to find in work well done.

I know a man whose union limits him to a certain amount of work daily. He is supposed to work seven-and-a-half hours, but he invariably does the prescribed amount in six hours and for the next hour-and-a-half he sits in complete idleness, unhappy with himself, an eyesore to his employer and a demoralizing influence upon others working in the same establishment (under a different union).

* * *

When I say there is room for another Lincoln I have in mind not "THAT" class of worker, but the thousands upon thousands of men, women and children who are without an organization, who are paid less than they can live upon or even the most modest comfort.

* * *

Although the system has serious disadvantages, I believe States should give serious consideration to having a minimum wage. Such a principle has already been adopted in certain parts of the country, and it is bound to spread. If ALL States would act in unison some of the difficulties would be eliminated.

* * *

The six-day week should also become nation-wide. It will one day.

New York State established a six-day week law last October, but it allowed far too many exceptions. I have tried to find out just how many workers have benefited, but this was the best information I could get from the State Department of Labor:

"Relative to your inquiry as to the number of men who have actually been granted a six-day week as a result of the new law, permit me to say that this department has no record by which it could, with any degree of accuracy, even estimate the number benefited. Generally speaking, however, the employers are willingly obeying the law, and from the reports of inspectors, the department feels that the number that has so far been benefited is very great."

Commissioner of Labor Lynch is in hearty sympathy with this humane law, and now that reasonable time has been given employers to comply with it he will find the public lined up with him if he finds it necessary to take legal steps to bring delinquent employers to their senses.

If you are employed in New York State in any of the following callings and are still compelled to work seven days a week, write in confidence to me, or, better still, state your case to the Commissioner of Labor, Albany, and he will give the matter (he has assured me) his attention:

MARRY YOUNG, SAYS LADY DECIES TO HER SISTERS IN AMERICA

© by CAMPBELL STUDIO WALDORF-ASTORIA

Lady Decies, former Miss Gould, who, with Lord Decies, is touring the country in the Gould private car, has just celebrated the third anniversary of her marriage.

Lady Decies, who was Miss Vivian Gould, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George J. Gould, believes that girls should marry young. Lady Decies is on a visit to the United States. In the case of the American girl, she does not think that eighteen years is too young an age for matrimony. The American girl at that age, she explains, is much older than the English girl. In fact, the American girl of sixteen is on a footing with the English girl of eighteen.

Lady Decies attributes the more mature status of the American girl to the fact that she travels much more than her English cousin.

The former Miss Gould also thinks that every wife owes it to society to establish a family.

"The American girl of sixteen is as old as the English girl of eighteen," said the youthful Lady Decies. "This is more or less inevitable. The American girl of means and opportunities does considerable traveling. She seems to feel that her own country is very large and presents a great diversity of things. So she begins by seeing her own country first.

Seeks Orphan Gone Since September 6

Dr. Walter L. Savage of the United States Public Health Service at Buffalo has issued an appeal to the Hearst newspapers to help find George Charles Hansell, an English orphan, whom he has been supporting and educating and who has been missing since September 6. The lad is sixteen, five feet four inches tall, has light brown hair, fair complexion and rosy cheeks.

MANY OFFERS ALREADY FOR STATE BONDS

The State bonds to be sold at the State's first "over the counter" sale next Friday will go like hot cakes, according to an announcement made today by State Treasurer Mansfield. He declared that his office had been flooded with inquiries about the sale and that already he had received tentative offers from the public for over $100,000 worth of the bonds.

Next Friday will be begun the sale of an issue of $6,525,000-4 per cent. serial bonds. Heretofore, it has been customary to make the lowest denomination $1000, but in the proposed issue, bonds of $100 can be sold. Thus it is expected the investments will be put within the reach of thousands who could not even think of a $1000 bond.

The sale of the bonds will be "over the counter," to any customer. Mr. Mansfield advertised, as required by law, for bids, but rejected all bids received and proceeded to announce this public sale. He believes he will thus eliminate the usual banking-house profits on bonds bought by bankers and re-sold to the local investors throughout the country.

In explaining his new plan, Mr. Mansfield said:

"On January 29, 1914, the Commonwealth advertised, according to law, for proposals for the sale of these issues, the grand total of which amounted to $6,525,000. Every bid received was rejected.

"Before the State election I said plainly that if elected I would sell State bonds directly to the people.

"My reasons for doing this are:

"First—It is economically sound.

"Second—The people have the right to buy their own bonds, justly from the State, thus eliminating the dealer's profit.

"Third—I was elected by the people on the strength of my pledge to do this, and they realized that the direct sale of bonds by the State was to their advantage.

"The highest bid on the entire issue was 104.279, and it must be obvious that the makers of this bid were confident that they could in turn sell the bonds at a higher price.

MEAT INJURIOUS TO THE KIDNEYS

Take a Tablespoonful of Salts if Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers.

We are a nation of meat eaters and our blood is filled with uric acid, says a well-known authority, who warns us to be constantly on guard against kidney trouble.

The kidneys do their utmost to free the blood of this irritating acid, but become weak from too over-work; they get sluggish; the eliminative tissues clog and thus the waste is retained in the blood to poison the entire system.

When your kidneys ache and feel like lumps of lead, your back pains, stinging pains in the back or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or the bladder is irritable, causing you to seek relief during the night; when you have severe headaches, nervous and dizzy spells, sleeplessness, acid stomach or rheumatism in bad weather, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys to neutralize the acids in urine so it is no longer a source of irritation, thus ending many forms of bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink and nobody can make a mistake by taking a little occasionally to keep the kidneys clean and active.

WALSH TO PICK OWN NAMES FOR B. & M. BOARD

Representatives of the New England railroads have asked Governor Walsh to "pass upon and consider" certain names for recommendation for appointment to the board of trustees which will take over the Boston & Maine Railroad.

The Governor was called upon by Chairman Howard Elliott of the New Haven, Bloomfield Storey of counsel for the road, and Nathan Matthews, representing financial interests in the Boston & Maine. Governor Walsh sent in George W. Anderson of the Public Service Commission.

It has declined to pass upon or consider any names suggested to me representatives of the railroads," Governor Walsh said when the conference was ended, "but, in accordance with my understanding with the national administration, will submit names to Attorney General McReynolds.

"The Interstate Commerce Commission announced that every man who can throw any light on the financial history of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company for the past few years will be summoned to give testimony.

"Members of the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co., ex-President Charles S. Mellen, Chairman Howard Elliott and other members of the present board of directors of the road will be called on to tell all the facts they know relating to the financial operation which led to the present condition of the New Haven and the consequent loss to its twelve thousand or more stockholders.

Business Men Give Dinner to Cardinal

Cardinal O'Connell was tendered a dinner at the Somerset by the members of the business men's committee that co-operated with the other workers in securing the big fund just raised for the new St. Elizabeth's Hospital. The members of this committee, nearly all of whom were at the dinner, included: T. J. Falvey, Hon. Joseph H. O'Neil, Daniel L. Prendergast, James Hearn, Frank P. O'Connor, P. A. O'Connell, chairman of the committee arranging the dinner; W. H. Fitzgerald, Hon. John F. Fitzgerald, Daniel A. Kiley, James J. Phelan, who during the campaign was chairman of the business men's committee; Charles Logue, John O'Hare, Jeremiah J. Burke, James E. McLaughlin and Henry V. Cunningham.

Dr. John B. Slattery, superintendent of the hospital, and William J. Dooley were also present.

Oldest Pickpocket Is Again Arrested

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—The oldest pickpocket in New York, and probably in the country, known to the police as "Ghost of the Past," was arrested today, charged with picking the pocket of Miss Fannie Sohn in Brooklyn. He is said to be seventy-five years old. He gave the name of John Hanley.

'51 ISN'T OLD,' SAYS EX-MAYOR ON BIRTHDAY

Tomorrow may be Lincoln's birthday, but today is John F. Fitzgerald's.

The "Little General," the former Mayor of Boston, is fifty-one years old now. He said over the telephone at 9.30:

"Yes, it's my fifty-first birthday. I'm sorry to say—no. I'm not sorry, either—I'm glad to say it—fifty-one is not old, not a bit."

"How do you feel?"

"First rate, thank you—lots of messages and remembrance—had thought I might be forgotten, being out of office now—but friends are all remembering me—glad to hear from them."

The former Mayor was just ready to start for the Republic office. He had quite a bit of business on hand for the day. But he was impatient for the day to be over, in one way, because he had an evening in store that he would particularly relish—an evening with his family.

They are to dine together, parents and children, and go to the theatre this evening.

"Mighty seldom of late years," said the birthday celebrant, "that I've been able to put in an evening with my family."

Mr. and Mrs. Fitzgerald will leave in about a week for the South. They will go to Palm Beach, but will travel through the Southland.

"I wish to observe business conditions as much as possible there," said Mr. Fitzgerald, "as that will be in line with work I shall be interested in when I return to Boston."

Peculiar After Effects of Grip This Year

Leaves Kidneys In Weakened Condition

Doctors in all parts of the country have been kept busy with the epidemic of grip which has visited so many homes. The symptoms of grip this year are often very distressing and leave the system in a run-down condition, particularly the kidneys, which seem to suffer most, as almost every victim complains of lame back and urinary troubles which should not be neglected, as these danger signals often lead to dangerous kidney troubles. Druggists report a large sale on Dr Kilmer's Swamp-Root, which so many people say soon heals and strengthens the kidneys after an attack of grip. Swamp-Root is a great kidney, liver and bladder remedy, and, being an herbal compound, has a gentle healing effect on the kidneys, which is almost immediately noticed in most cases by those who try it. Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., offer to send a sample size bottle of Swamp-Root on receipt of ten cents, to every sufferer who requests it. A trial will convince any one who may be in need of it. Regular size bottles 50 cts. and $1.00. For sale at all druggists'. Be sure to mention this paper.

THE WAR OF JENKINS' EAR

The above heading puzzles you, Perhaps one man in a hundred thousand DOES KNOW about "The War of Jenkins' Ear." This man Jenkins was a British officer. The hasty removal of that ear by an overzealous Spaniard at Panama set all England aflame, and resulted in a series of hard fought encounters.

Spain and England fought stubbornly over the loss of that ear. This is only one of the hundred of thrilling romances which centers about that land of adventure—Panama. No country in the world has gone through so many changes and revolutions. All these things and many other interesting facts about Panama, its people, history and the great canal are told by Willis J. Abbot in

PANAMA AND THE CANAL In Picture And Prose

Go With Us to Panama; The Entire Expense Is 98 Cents

Millions are unable to make the trip because of the expense involved. Thousands can afford to go, but have not the time. These two classes constitute the majority of Americans.

The book, "Panama and the Canal in Picture and Prose," now being distributed by The Boston American and the Liggett's Stores, is even better than a trip. No private citizen could possibly absorb a fraction of the information collected by Willis J. Abbot during his many weeks sojourn on the Isthmus, while gathering material for this thrilling 400-page illustrated story.

The result is a volume, fascinatingly written, covering all there is to know about the great canal, the people and history of Panama, from the pirate days to the latest happenings.

URGES WOMEN POLICE IN WAR ON THE MASHER

Marian Nichols, chairman of the legislative committee of the Boston Federat on of Women's Clubs, today declared that the only effective way to end the 'masher' evil on Boston streets is to have policewomen.

It was Miss Nichols who introduced the resolution adopted at a meeting of the Federation yesterday, calling on the City Council to pass an ordinance dealing with the 'masher' evil. Twenty-one thousand women in the different clubs are united in the fight to secure the legislation. Their action follows an investigation by Mrs. Robert A. Woods and other leaders.

Miss Nichols today said, in discussing the Federation's action:

"Nothing is going to stop this loose way that men are acting toward women on the streets of this city till we get this ordinance.

HUGE ARRESTS.

"We have stopped expectoration on Boston streets by arresting a few of the offenders. Just so if few mashers were brought into the clutches of the law, they would be inclined to stop.

"It is not safe for a woman to walk about Washington or Tremont streets after dark. She is bound to have some one speak to her. She has no redress against the men.

"A short time ago, two ladies came to Boston and engaged in work that kept them out late evenings. They could not pass to their home without some one speaking to them in insulting language.

"These ladies found that a woman was subject to more of this sort of treatment after dark in Boston than in any other city.

"Young women cannot sit, I am told, in the waiting room of the South End without being spoken to in a way that a true woman resents.

OFFERS WOMEN AS REMEDY.

"Boston women want this stopped. Policemen may not be able to get hold of the culprits, but women police could run down some of these young men—and in many in many instances old men, too—who spend their time in talking to and following women on Boston streets."

Here is the resolution adopted by the Federation:

Whereas, the ordinances of the city of Boston relative to the use of streets do not prohibit one person from addressing another person in an offensive manner or from otherwise giving annoyance —providing that no profane or obscene language is used;

Whereas, the provision in chapter 8 of the ordinances of 1912 forbidding such annoyance on the public grounds of Boston has proved a great benefit to the community;

Whereas, it is believed that existing conditions show an equal need for protecting persons from annoyance on the public streets;

Resolved, that the Boston City Federation, representing 21,000 women, respectfully petitions the City Council of Boston for the adoption of an ordinance making it an offence for one person to annoy another person on the streets and thereby safeguarding the personal liberty of the citizens of Boston.

Secretary Robert W. Kelso of the State Board of Charity, discussing the sex question, said:

"The time-honored method of prosecuting the woman is utter folly. mere scratching the surface. There is no effective way of combating the evil without getting at the man.

"That does not mean bringing some miserable wretch now and then before the court. It means reaching the 'silent partner.' The owner of the property in which disorderly conditions are found should, regardless of the question of intent, be held responsible."

The speaker went on to show how intimately the evil was bound up with the problem of housing, child education, the provision of healthy amusements and recreations.

"You cannot," he continued, "successfully combat the sex evil until you have placed the two sexes on the same footing, at least so far as this problem is concerned. If you expect men to run the government on such a franchise as we now have, the success will be slow, but if you permit women to assist, you will bring in a tremendous asset in the fight for a solution."

Auto News

By J. C. KERRISON.

The Committee on Roads and Bridges gave another hearing yesterday on the proposed amendments to the statutes governing the use and control of automobiles. The muffler bill, to prevent the cutting out of mufflers, was generally favored by the automobile interests, while Jerome S. Smith of Provincetown favored his own petition to require the Highway Commission to maintain uniform caution signals on the State highways and the cities and towns officials to maintain similar signs in the city and town highways.

Two automobile shows are now being held in New England. Portland, Me., and Brockton, Mass., are both holding forth with first-class exhibits and, according to reports from those cities, both are being well attended.

The new self starting and lighting plant especially designed for Ford cars by the Gray & Davis Co., Inc., will be operated in conjunction with Edison batteries. Extensive arrangements have been made for the production of the starters in very large quantities.

The Harley-Davidson Motor Company has established a New England branch at No. 74 Dunnington avenue, being in charge of New England Manager W. J. Walker and Sales Manager H. Bailey. This concern carries the Harley-Davidson line of motorcycles.

H. E. Harvey, New England manager of the Hartford Suspension Company, accompanied by Charlie Lawton of the Wynnore-Range Company, left last evening for the Portland show, where he expects to spend the rest of the week.

ACID STOMACHS ARE DANGEROUS

Nine-tenths of All Stomach Trouble Said to Be Due to Acidity.

A Physician's Advice on Cause and Cure.

A famous physician whose successful researches into the cause and cure of stomach and intestinal diseases have earned for him an international reputation, said in the course of a recent lecture that nearly all intestinal troubles as well as many diseases of the vital organs are directly traceable to a deranged condition of the stomach which in turn was due nine times out of ten to excessive acidity, commonly termed sour stomach or heartburn, which not only irritated and inflamed the delicate lining of the stomach, but also set up gastritis and stomach ulcers. It is interesting to note that he condemns the use of patent medicines as well as of medical treatment for the stomach, stating that he and his colleagues have secured remarkable results by the use of ordinary blanched magnesia, which, by neutralizing the acidity of the food, removes the source of the trouble. He contends that it is as foolish to treat the stomach itself as it would be for a man who stepped on a tack to rub liniment on the foot without first removing the tack. Suppose the tack and the foot will heal itself—inevitable the acid of the stomach trouble will disappear. Irritating medicines and medical treatments are useless, so long as the contents of the stomach remain acid; remove the acidity, and there will be no need for medicine—the inflamed lining of the stomach will then heal itself. Sufferers from acidity, sour stomach or heartburn should get a small bottle of blanched magnesia from their druggist, and take a teaspoonful in a quarter of a glass of hot or cold water after meals, repeating in fifteen minutes, if necessary, this being the dose which the doctor has found most efficacious in all cases. G. W. GARDINER: "Because I like to see business good and people happy. I am a Boy Scout, fourteen years old."

Some of the reasons given by other new members are:

MRS. JOHANNA SULLIVAN, No. 9 Winchester street: "The reason I joined is to help remove evil from the minds of the people who look on the dark side of life, and to replace it with unity, love, happiness and prosperity constitute our heritage, and we should claim it."

J. JOSEPH MURRAY, No. 40 Richards street, Worcester: "If we have troubles it is no reason for making others feel disagreeable. Your club has my heartiest approval. I shall try to get others to join, too."

EDITH LOUISE WOODWARD, No. 199 West Newton street: "Because I believe that unity, love, happiness and prosperity constitute our heritage, and we should claim it."

MRS. JULIA BRADLEY, No. 138 Water street, Fitchburg: "I believe in having a kind word for every one, and am sure to be happy, because sunshine is the root of all kindness."

SAMUEL ENGLAND, No. 16 Hollywood street, Worcester: "I believe in the fullest possible co-operation and good will between all human beings."

G. A. SAUIN, No. 58 High street, Camden, Me.: "Because I believe in looking up."

GEORGE E. PERRY, No. 241 High street, Bristol, R. I.: "That I may in some way cause the betterment of all those who deserve better things."

JOSEPH MCGUIN, No. 7 Ash street, Salem: "Because I believe in temperate tango dancing and the good old Socialist party, and always keep smiling."

CHARLES E. DESSAULT, No. 124 George street, Taunton: "Because sunshine is the proper thing —I am no gloom."

Well, What Do You Say About Clock Puzzle?

Lots of folks have found their heads twisted all out of shape by a little pondering on the AMERICAN'S series of "brain teasers." Here's the clock puzzle—if you haven't tried it:

"If a calendar clock, which indicates the second, minute, hour and the day of the month shows the correct time at 5 p. m. on Saturday, January 17, and gains 10 minutes daily, what will be the correct time when the clock indicates that it is 5 p. m. on February 17?"

The correct solution of the grocer and messenger problem is 4½ miles.

Tell about this clock puzzle —well, let's get at it.

OTHELLO TREAT WITH FORBES-ROBERTSON

Othello the warrior, Othello the lover, but above all Othello the playactor, this was what those who went to the theatre last night saw. Forbes Robertson masterly presentation developed from the moment of Othello's entrance on the stage, the exquisite weak yet strong character which was the moor's undoing.

Between lethargy and lago as the dupe of wits professional, honors were even. Iago it is who in the first scene secretly avows his hate of the Moor, Iago it is who contrives the downfall of Othello, Iago it is whose guile brings Othello to misery and despair. And even at the very end, when Othello, the old and broken man, strikes the steel from his breast—Iago still stands unmoved, defiant, strong. A villain in every inch—he must be satisfactory villain Shakespeare ever painted — but a strong man to the end.

Othello's conceit, his tenderness for his rejection, his continual coneciousness of his own worth—we trust Sir Johnson Forbes-Robertson planned for us to see all these points throughout.

Brabantio in the first act gave a spirited condition. Cassio played well the part of a young, high-spirited and brave gentleman, with his single weakness that was bigger than the man. Roderigo was a delightful foil. S. A. Cookson was Iago, George Hayes, Roderigo, and Alexander Scott-Gatty, Cassio.

Gertrude Elliott was beautiful, appealing. She brought home the reality of her part. And Emilia, Adeline Bourne put into her character a vivacity and enthusiasm that caught and held her hearers.

ME. DALVAREZ, who will sing Carmen at Opera House tonight.

Mme. Dalvarez's Farewell Tonight

"Carmen" will be sung tonight for the first time this season at the Boston Opera House. The presentation has been especially arranged for the farewell appearance of Maravina Dalvarez. Mme. Dalvarez herself is of Spanish descent, and the part of the gipsy has an especial appeal to her. Her Carmen has been warmly praised in London, Paris and Milan.

The business of 1913 was conducted successfully and at a continued saving. The expense ratio of 1913 is 5.48% less than that of 1907, representing a total saving since that date of over $4,750,000.

A substantial increase in returns to policyholders was provided for during the year.

In the Weekly Premium Branch, to prepare for this increase, a final extra sum of over TWO MILLION DOLLARS was added to the policy reserves, completing the change to a higher reserve basis as authorized by law.

There was also set aside in liabilities, in addition to the regular amount reserved for dividends on these policies, extra reserve to provide for a 25% increase in the cash dividends for 1914, and further:

An extra reserve to provide for mortuary additions, making the insurance benefits on the old policies which are expected to become death claims in 1914 equal to those of the present scale. This means that the Company expects and is prepared to pay to these policyholders in 1914, $600,000 more than their policies call for.

The Directors, in announcing these features in 1913, said:

"The complete realization of these plans will not only place the interests of the Weekly Premium Policies in the strongest position, but will also advance the Company squarely to the front with respect to soundness of basis and percentage of returns to the holders of such policies."

In the Ordinary Branch there was also reserved an extra sum to provide for an increase in the return, or dividend, to the policies equal to a 17 per cent average increase over the scale in use prior to 1914. This necessitated the laying aside in reserve of over two million dollars on December 31, 1913.

The Directors, in announcing this increase, said:

"The total abatement of premium, or as it is popularly termed, dividend, thus established for 1914 upon policies of the Ordinary Branch, will aggregate a sum estimated at over TWO MILLION DOLLARS, which will be reserved as a liability in the annual statement for 1913, and which is approximately 25 per cent greater than the dividend liability reserved in the 1912 statement for 1913. By this action the Company advances to a high place in the ranks of the Companies having a record for low net cost."

OFFICIAL REPORTS AMERICAN BUILDING NOT A FIRETRAP

close up the AMERICAN building as soon as he was elected Mayor.

CHANGES MADE.

1 find that recently the following changes were made which relate in some degree to safeguarding the lives of the occupants of the building:

1. All the wiring in the City Wire Department, changes are now being made in electric lighting and power installation.

2. The old passenger elevator has been removed and a new elevator installed. This work was completed on January 2, 1914.

3. Some linotype machines have been rearranged so as to enlarge passageways to exits. The work of rearranging others is now going on.

4. The stairway from basement to first story at the Winthrop square end of building has been made accessible by removing the flooring which covered the same and which was an obstruction to egress. This work was being done while our inspection was being made and was completed February 4, 1914.

5. On the entrance door of No. 287 Devonshire street a yale lock has been provided which can be operated from the inside, thus affording egress from the stairs to the street, in place of the dead lock which operated by key. This was done towards the end of January, this year.

6 In connection with this investigation I found that the windows in the rear of No. 76-78 Summer street, leading to the connecting fire escape balconies with the Boston AMERICAN building, had been constructed in such a manner that they impair egress from buildings No. 76-78 Summer street and 80-82 Summer street. A complaint relative to the same was sent to the owners of No. 76-78 Summer street on February 6, 1914.

NOTE BY EDITOR—Observe ALL THESE changes were made IMMEDIATELY upon the request of the various city departments. Please observe the dates.

The following shows the methods of egress in the buildings under investigation and the number of employes occupying the same:

Basement—80-82 Summer street, 295 to 281 Devonshire street, 4-5 Winthrop square.

Lower room. No regular number of employes. Egress by stairs leading to Summer street and by stairs to press room No. 1.

Press room No. 1—Twenty-one employes. Egress by stairs leading to Summer street and by opening in party wall, 6 feet 5 inches wide, to press room No. 2, and by stairs to small mailing room.

Stereotype room—Eight employes. Egress by flight of stairs to press room No. 1 and by opening in party wall, 3 feet wide, to press room No. 2.

Press room No. 2—Fourteen employes. Egress by stairs to Devonshire street and by stairs to first floor at rear, also by party wall openings to press rooms No. 1 and No. 3.

Press room No. 3—Fifteen employes. Egress through party wall openings to press rooms No. 2 and No. 4.

Press room No. 4—Fifteen employes, both night and day. Egress by opening in party wall, by runway to press room No. 3 and by flight of stairs to Winthrop square end of building to first floor.

This portion of building (4-5 Winthrop square) is provided with automatic sprinklers.

EVERY EXIT CLEAR.

First Floor, 80-82 Summer street, 295-297, 283-285 Devonshire street, and 4-5 Winthrop square. Public office on main floor, 8 employes. Balcony, 5 employes. Egress by main door to Summer street. Balcony egress by flight of stairs to office floor.

Store room—Six employes. Egress by front entrance door to Devonshire street and by opening in part wall.

Magazine and special feature room 19 employes. Egress by main entrance to Winthrop square and by small window to Devonshire street.

This portion of building (4-5 Winthrop square) is provided with automatic sprinklers.

Second floor, 80-82 Summer street, 295-297, 283-285 Devonshire street. Linotype room—16 employes. Egress by stairs leading to Summer street and by opening in partywall to advertising room, also by fire escape on Devonshire street side of building.

Advertising room—16 employes. Egress by partywall opening to linotype room on left and to advertising roomon right, also by rear stairs to first floor and basement, by fire escape on Devonshire street side of building, and by balcony escape at rear to next building, 76-78 Summer street.

Advertising room—Average 5 employes. Egress by stairs to Devonshire street and by fire escape on Devonshire street side of building, also by partywall opening to advertising room.

STAIRS AND FIRE ESCAPE.

Third floor—80-82 Summer street, 295-297 Devonshire street. Editorial room—20 employes. Egress by stairs leading to Summer street, by fire escape on Devonshire street side of building, and by opening in party wall eight feet wide to photo department.

Photo department, seven employes. Egress by stairs and by fireescape on Devonshire street sire of building, by balcony escape at rear of 76-78 Summer street and by opening in party wall eight feet wide to editorial room.

Fourth floor—80-82 Summer street, 295-297 Washington street—Counting room, average fifteen employes. Egress by stairs leading to Summer street and by passage to advertising room, then to fire escape on Devonshire street side of building.

Advertising room—Twenty employes. Egress by stairs leading to Summer street, by fire escape on Devonshire side of building and by balcony escape to 76-78 Summer street; also by opening in party wall to magazine room.

Magazine room—Two or three employees. Egress by fire escape on Devonshire street side of building, by balcony escape to 76-78 Summer street, and by party wall opening eight feet wide to advertising room, and also by rear stairs to basement.

FIFTH FLOOR—80-82 Summer street, 295-297 Devonshire street. Offices on Hummer street front, no particular number of occupants—average six employees. (These offices have connecting doors.) Egress by stairs leading to Summer street and passage to circulating department. Circulating department, twenty employees. Egress by opening in party wall eight feet wide to carpenter shop, by fire escape on Devonshire street side of building, and by ladder and scuttle to roof.

"REASONABLE EGRESS."

Carpenter shop—Five employes. Egress by stairs to basement and by fire escape on Devonshire street side of building, also by opening in party wall eight feet wide to circulating department and by ladder and scuttle to roof.

There are three elevators in these buildings, one passenger and two freight, which might afford egress under certain conditions. Openings in party wall are protected by metal covered doors on both sides of wall.

Means of extinguishing fire—Fire extinguisher and water pails.

I consider that the buildings which have been investigated have now reasonable egress in case of fire.

Yours respectfully,

(Signed) JOHN M. MINTON,
Acting Building Commissioner.

FOR CHILDREN OF SCHOOL AGE

With Proper Help at Home They Will Advance More Rapidly at School.

It has often been said that the education of the child should begin at home. Teachers can do but little in helping their pupils to advance in their studies until the pupils are taught to help themselves. Home help will count far more than anything else, but children are not always able to get help at home. There are but few who realize the value of teaching from books outside of the usual school text books.

The American is offering a new book on Panama and the canal. No more useful book can be put into the hands of school children than this complete story of the greatest achievement known to mankind. It will familiarize them with the world's progress; it teaches them the modern methods employed in accomplishing gigantic undertakings; it adds to their knowledge of history. Every school child should have access to "Panama and the Canal in Picture and Prose."

This beautiful big book is bound in tropical red vellum cloth, and is twice as large as the usual size novel. It is magnificently illustrated throughout with pictures which portray the people as well as the unusual scenes of this beautiful tropical country.

Present six certificates such as are printed daily elsewhere in these columns and come into immediate possession of this magnificent volume.

SARAH CONBOY.

Mrs. Sarah A. Conboy of this city received a commission today from Samuel Gompers to act as National Organizer of the American Federation of Labor. She will be the only woman so employed by the federation.

Mrs. Conboy is national vice-president of the Woman's Trade Union League, a delegate to the Boston Central Labor Union, and has served as a general organizer of the United Textile Workers for almost two years. She is considered one of the ablest women labor leaders in the country, and an unusually eloquent speaker.

Immediately upon receipt of her commission from Washington today, Mrs. Conboy left for Springfield, where she will remain for one week. From there she will go to South Carolina, on a special mission of organization among women wage workers.

The high honor paid Mrs. Conboy by the federation was made the subject of congratulation in local labor circles today.

WOMAN SLAYER BROODED OVER SCHENCK CASE

NEWARK, N. J., Feb. 11.—Charles I. Manning, charged as an accessory in the slaying of his wife by Miss Hazel Herdman, has been admitted to bail. The bond was $5,000.

As he left the station house one of the curious persons gathered there shouted:

"We wish you luck."

"I have nothing to fear. I am innocent of any crime," responded Manning.

That Hazel Herdman was much impressed by the stormy life led by the beautiful Florence Schenck, who died in her youth much like Miss Herdman died, was learned yesterday from Mrs. Isadore K. Garrabrandt sister of Manning. Mrs. Garrabrandt made the first public statement of Miss Herdman's movements just prior to and after the murder of Mrs. Manning.

"On the morning of the murder," said Mrs. Garrabrandt, "Hazel appeared unusually nervous. She was greatly irritated, but finally calmed down and asked me to go to the theatre with her that afternoon. I could not go because I had some shopping to do. She left the house in a huff, taking my raincoat with her.

"That evening she came back, apparently cheerful. 'Well, I killed Mrs. Manning. I have just put six bullets into her,' she said to me. I thought her mind was gone. She had been a great reader of the life of Florence Schenck, and was continually talking to me about the tragedies Miss Schenck was compelled to undergo."

When You Smell the Good Food Cooking

And It Makes You Sick It is a Sure Sign That You Need Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

It is time to pay attention to your stomach when the sight or the smell of food makes you sick for sure this is the fact the stomach would not cause such disgust upon the part of the sense of smell and taste when meal time comes around.

All the world has to eat. You men who walk to your meals like you do to a drug store for medicine, should at once realize that there is a relief for you. This relief is Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

The Dyspeptic: "How can a man live in a smell like that!"

Taste, sight and smell all have an influence upon digestion. If one eats something that does not taste good one retards the work of digestion because the juices necessary to digest the thing eaten will not flow in correct proportion.

On the other hand, good food will always excite the taste through actual contact with the food in the mouth or through the sight or sense of smell, unless the stomach knows that it cannot digest it.

We thus readily learn that the simple act of giving nature the digestive aids she needs, will bring back all the joys of good eating, and tasting, smelling and seeing dainty dishes will excite a rousing appetite.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are composed of natural ingredients that a wornout digestion simply welcomes with a wild delight. They enrich the stomach juices quickly so that if you want to eat an out-of-the-ordinary afterthe-theatre sort of a dinner just carry a Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet in your pocket, take it after the meal and you will digest that meal.

Your druggist will supply you with a box, no matter where you live. Price 50 cents.

Solons Invited to See Lynn Tango

An invitation has been extended to the Social Welfare Committee of the Legislature to witness an exhibition of the tango in Lynn tonight, to be given by pupils of Joseph A. O'Brien. Mr. O'Brien says that the exhibition will be given at the request of members of the Senate and that his purpose is to see that the members are intelligently informed as to the right and wrong of the dances.

THE WOMAN THOU GAVEST ME

Hall Caine's Greatest Story

THE NARRATIVE OF
HARRY O'NEILL
WHO THROWS
HIMSELF IN LOVE

Chapter Fifty-four—Continued

THIS was at the new Cathedral at Westminster, so I changed to a little Catholic church in a kind of mews in Mayfair, and there my confessor was an older man whose quivering voice seemed to search the very depths of my being. He was deeply alarmed at my condition and counselled me to pray to God night and day to strengthen me against temptation.

"The evil one is besieging your soul, my child," he said. "Fight with him, my daughter."

I tried to follow my ghostly father's direction, but how hard it was to do so! Martin had only to take my hand and look into my eyes and all my good resolutions were gone in a moment.

HEALTH FAILED

As a result of the fierce struggle between my heart and my soul my health began to fail. Whether insanity now, and not from design, I had to keep my room, but even there my love for Martin was always hanging like a threatening sword over my head.

My maid Price was for ever singing his praises. He was so bright, so cheerful, so strong, so manly; in fact, he was perfect, and any woman in the world might be forgiven if she fell in love with him.

Her words were like music in my ears, and sometimes I felt as if I wanted to throw my arms about her neck and kiss her. But at other moments I reproved her for talking as she was very wicked of her to think so much of the creature instead of fixing her mind on the Creator—a piece of counsel which made Price, who was all warmth, open her sparkling black eyes in bewilderment.

Nearly every morning she brought me a bunch of flowers, which Martin had bought at Covent Garden, all glittering from the sunshine and damp with the dew. I loved to have them near me, but, finding they tempted me to think more tenderly of him who sent them, I always contrived by one excuse or another to send them into the sitting room that they might be out of my sight at all events.

After a while Price, remembering my former artifice, began to believe that I was only pretending to be ill, in order to draw Martin on, and then taking a certain liberty with me, as with a child, she reproved me.

"If I were a lady I couldn't have the heart," she said, "I really couldn't. It's all very well for us women, but men don't understand such ways. They're only children, men are, when you come to know them."

I began to look upon poor Price as a honeyed fiend sent by Satan to seduce me, and to say the truth she sometimes acted up to the character. One day she said:

"If I was wed to a man I didn't love, and who didn't love me, and somebody else, worth ten of him was ready and waiting, I would take the sweet with the bitter, I would. Wedding if she had forgotten that she was speaking to her mistress, and a married woman; but all the while I knew that it was myself, not my maid, I was angry with, for she had only been giving voice to the thoughts that were secretly tormenting me.

I had been in bed about a week when Price came with a letter in her hand and a look of triumph in her black eyes and said:

"There, my lady! What did I tell you? You've had it all your own way and now you've driven him off. He has left the hotel and gone to live on his ship."

KISSED LETTER

The frightened me terribly, and partly for that reason I ordered her out of the room, telling her she must leave me altogether if she ever took such liberties again. But I'm sure she saw me, as she was going through the door, take up Martin's letter, which I had thrown on to the table, and press it to my lips.

The letter was of no consequence. It was merely to tell me that he was going down to Plymouth for a few days, to take possession of his old ship in the name of his company, but it end in a postscript:

"I there's anything I can do for you, pass me the word and I'll come up like quick-sticks."

"What can I do? What can I do?" I thought. Everything my heart desired my soul condemned as sinful, and religion had done nothing to liberate me from the pains of my guilty passion.

All this time my husband and Alma were busy with the galeties of the London season, which was then in full swing. With the homes in Mayfair being ablaze every night, the lifinds up and the streets open to cool the overheated rooms in which men and women could be seen dancing in closely-packed crowds.

One night, after Alma and my husband had gone to a reception in Grosvenor Square, I had a sudden attack of heart-strain and had to be put to bed, whereupon Price who had realized that I was really ill, to1 Hobson, my husband's valet, to go after his master and bring him back immediately.

"It'll be all as one but I'll go if you like," said Hobson. In half an hour he came back with my husband's answer, "Send for a doctor."

This put Price into a fever o' mingled anger and perplexity and not knowing what else to do she telegraphed to Martin on his ship, telling him that I was ill and asking what doctor she ought to call in to see me.

Inside an hour a reply came not

...o Tilbury but from Portsmouth saying:

"Call Doctor—of Brook Street. I'm coming up at once."

SHE SHOWED STRAIN

All this I hear on the first time when Price with another triumphant look came into my bedroom flourishing Martin's telegram as something she had reason to be proud of.

"You won't mean to say that you telegraphed to Mr. Conrad" I said.

"Why not?" said Price. "When a lady is ill and her husband pays no attention to her, and there's somebody else not far off who would give his two eyes to save her a pain in her little finger, what is a woman to do?"

I told her what she was not to do. She was not to call the doctor under any circumstances, and when Martin came she was to make it plain to him that she had acted on her own responsibility.

Towards midnight he arrived, and Price brought him into my room in a long ulster covered with dust. I blushed and trembled at sight of him, for his face betrayed the strain and anxiety he had gone through on my account, and when he smiled at seeing that I was not as ill as he thought, I was ashamed to the bottom of my heart.

"You'll be sorry you've made such a long journey now that you see there's so little amiss with me," I said.

"Sorry?" he said. "By the holy saints, I would take a longer one every night of my life to see you looking so well at the end of it."

His blue eyes were shining like the sun from behind a cloud, and the excellent looks could not have hurt me more.

I tried to keep my face from expressing the emotion I desired to conceal, and asked if he had caught a train easily from Portsmouth, seeing he had arrived so early.

"No. Oh no, there was no train up until 11 o'clock," he said.

"Then how did you get here so soon?" I asked, and though he would not tell me at first, I got it out of him at last—he had hired a motor-car and travelled the ninety miles to London in two hours and a half.

That crushed me. I could not speak. I thought I should have choked, lying there with Martin at arm's length of me. I was afraid of myself, and did not know what I might do next. But at last, with a great effort to control myself, I took his hand and kissed it, and then turned my face to the wall.

Fifty-fifth Chapter

THAT was the beginning of the end, and when, next day towards noon, my husband came with drowsy eyes to make a kind of ungracious apology, saying he supposed the doctor had been sent for, I said:

"James, I want you to take me home."

"Home? You mean . . . Castle Ran?"

"Yes."

He hesitated, and I began to plead with him, earnestly and eagerly not to deny me what I asked.

"Take me home, I beg, I pray."

At length, seeming to think I must be homesick, he said:

"Well, you know my views about that God-forsaken place; but the season's nearly at an end, and I don't mind going back on one condition—that you raise no objection to my inviting a few friends to liven it up a bit."

"It is your house," I said. "You must do as you please in it."

"Very good; that's settled," he said, getting up to go. "And I dare say it will do you no harm to be out of the way of all this cluttering and confessing to priests, who are always depressing people even when they're not making mischief."

Hardly had my husband left me when Alma came into my sitting room in the most affectionate and insincere of her moods.

"My poor, dear sweet child," she said. "I'd had the least idea you were feeling so badly I shouldn't have allowed Jimmy to stay another minute at that tiresome reception. But how good it was of Mr. Conrad to come all that way to see you! That's what I call being a friend now!"

Then came the real object of her visit—I saw it coming.

"I hear you're to have a house party at Castle Rag. Jimmy's in his room writing piles of invitations. He has asked me to ask you, and I should love to go, but of course I cannot do so without you wish it. Do you?"

What could I say? What I did say I scarcely know. I only know that at the next minute Alma's arms were round my neck, and she was saying:

"You can't refuse me and you, my lady; I really can't," she said. Next day I wrote a little letter to Martin on the Scotia telling him of our change of plans, but forbidding him to trouble to come up to say good-bye.

"LIKE HOT SPRINGS" AT HOME!
—GOOD-BYE, RHEUMATISM

No need to rush off to Hot Springs for relief from Rheumatism. Salicylic Neuralgia, Grippe, Colds or Insomnia.

The match brings equal benefits to you—all telling evidence that your get almost instant relief. Just rub two drops of Rheumatism with your fingers, and the pain and aches and pains to come.

The secret lies in the power of Rheumatism to open the pores, and stimulate the millions of sweat glands in the skin to throw off the uric acid and toxins.

The retention of these poisons in the body causes a multitude of ills. Stiff, sore, aching joints and muscles, rheumatic pains, nervousness, insomnia, headache, pimples, obesity, etc., are danger signals.

It is a folly to fight Rheumatism and kindred ailments with drugs which only deaden the pain. Remove the cause! Get the uric acid poisons out of your system by taking these hot mineral baths—leave your aches and pains in the bath tub.

Rheumatism is the great eliminator. It has the power to neutralize quantities of effete matter, relieves the overworked kidneys, drives the poisons from the system. "Loose of saying." Make you feel good all over.

Women call Rheumatism "the ugly word" and to banish it of all the complexion-making skin-softening—reduces excess fat. Some of America's most famous actresses use and endorse it.

If not obtainable from your druggist, write to the RHEUMATH Company, Dept. 4, Minneapolis, Minn., and we will mail you a full size package, postage prepaid, enough for a good, hot bath, for only $1.00 for a month's treatment, all carriage charges prepaid. Satisfactory results guaranteed with money back agreement or money back. If you like you can obtain from Rheumath free. Sold by all druggists and other leading drug stores.

INTENSE ITCHING BURNING OF LEG

Ankle Broke Out in Pimples. Whole Knee Solid Sore. Could Scarcely Sleep, Could Not Wear Shoe. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Cured.

North Troy, Vt.—"My son cut his foot on a piece of glass. The sore got bad and the ankle broke out in pimples. The leg up to the knee and the whole knee was a solid sore. It would come in a pimple and spread to a sore as large as a silver dollar. He would scratch when the bandage was taken off. He could not bend his leg or let it hang down. It would pain him so badly. It was a red, discharged thick yellowish matter, was red and inflamed around the outer edge. It would itch and burn and he could scarcely sleep. The itching and burning were intense at times. He could not wear a shoe. The sore would smart and burn when exposed to the air. I would have to wash it three times a day. The leg was all matter from the time it commenced to break out in sores.

"I happened to think of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and thought I would try them. It soon began to heal. In one week's time there was a great improvement and in six weeks it was all healed up and cured." (Signed) Mrs. W. H. Welcome, May 26, 1913.

For more than a generation Cuticura Soap and Ointment have been the favorites for the treatment of eczemas, rashes, itchings, irritations and other torturing, disfiguring diseases of the skin and scalp. Sold throughout the world. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address: post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

Men who shave and shampoo with Cuticura Soap will find it best for skin and scalp.

THE AMERICAN TOBACCO COMPANY

PLANS NOW UNDER WAY TO TAKE THE FEDERAL LEAGUE INTO ORGANIZED BASEBALL

BOSTON AMERICAN SPORTING NEWS

TY COBB GIVES SOME "INSIDE" INFORMATION ON BIG LEAGUE PITCHERS HE HAS FACED

In this article the "greatest baseball player of all time" continues his "inside" discussion of big league pitchers especially for the Boston AMERICAN.

THIS rather lengthy discussion of the pitchers, into which I have injected incidents, has had for its purpose to show that it is hard to say which is the best in the big leagues. One man is invincible against certain clubs and easy for others. He looks good on certain days and under certain circumstances.

I think I mentioned in a previous article the case of "Jim" Scott of the White Sox, who has always been able to beat the Athletics with great frequency, because the first time he worked against them he pitched them to death. He has believed ever since that he has something on them and so do they. He cannot tell any one else how he does it.

Then there is "Ed" Walsh. For a long time "Connie" Mack's team knew when Walsh was going to pitch the spitball by an unconscious move he made with his eyebrows. If he really wet the ball, that caused he peek of his cap to vacillate up and down. If he was bluffing, the peek did not move.

They would hammer Walsh when they knew a ball was coming, because he threw little besides the spitter and its fast one, and, having acquired the belief they could beat him, they still hit him hard, although not as consistently, even after "Ed" had been tipped off to the fact that he made the unconscious move and had covered it up.

Matty Got the Reds Because He Was Sore on Griffith.

Matty has been able to win from the Cincinnati Club with great frequency because, the story is, he took two or three games in a row, years ago, and he got to believe he always would win, and so did the Reds.

They say the first game of the long series of victories that Matty won out-hung up against the Reds was one in which Matty was pitching his head off because he got sore at some remark Clarke Griffith, then the Cincinnati pilot, had made to him from the coacher's box.

Often a little thing like that will have a lasting influence. The last thing in the world which will worry Matty, in fact, any seasoned veteran, is "kidding" from the coacher box.

But Matheweson was young when Griffith tried it, and the "old fox" did not know what a boomerang his joshing was going to turn out to be.

Matty always had trouble winning from the Cubs of old, Reds' pets.

Frequently, there is one individual batter who can hit some one pitcher hard, even though he may be weak against other twirlers of far less ability. It is because the man has likewise has something on the twirler. Take the case of Tinker and Mathewson. They say the old Cub shortstop beat the New York star out of more games than any one player in baseball.

On the other hand, Wagner could never hit "Rube" Raymond as well as he could other pitchers, because Raymond kidded the great Pittsburgh performer from the box and it got his German goat, to think his dignity should be reflected upon.

Walter Johnson Is The Greatest in the World.

However, there is one pitcher I would rate above all others right out hand. I do not think of a single one against which he is weak, or a single big league batter, in fact. Of course some men hit him harder than others, but this can be laid more to the individual ability of the batter than to the idea that they have anything on him. The pitcher I refer to is Walter Johnson of the Washington team, and I consider him the greatest in the world.

He combines everything that a successful twirler needs. He has a fine, fast breaking curve, and he is famous for his speed. I do not exaggerate when I say that his fast one has been good over 100 miles a day that I have never seen the ball pass me, and am only aware of the fact because I have heard it strike the catcher's glove.

Johnson Playing a Safe Game Now.

Like most young pitchers when he first came to the Washington club he was eager to make a great record and sensational start for himself and he knew he had the stuff. He used to put all he had on every ball he pitched, and would go through the games right along with the idea against him totalling less than five.

His club got to figuring that one run was enough to win for them with Johnson pitching and, with this margin, they would quit hustling for runs.

Pitchers on opposing teams would rack up assignment to go into the box against the Washington wonder, blending sore arm or some other ailment, really foreseeing defeat—a condition which helped to beat them before they started—and it is becoming anxious to have an almost positive cavity put into their records without any chance of getting a run for their money.

Every now and then a pitcher beats Johnson it is hard to convince him that he is not the wonder of the world.

But Johnson has changed his tactics recently and is saving himself for a few ambitious to last a record length of time at his chosen profession and continue to give down his record salary for some years to come. A few seasons more he rounded and the batters for not hustling harder to get runs behind him when he was in the box. He was talking to me about this one day last Summer. He said:

"I used to head them out everything I carried all the time, no matter what the situation was. But, taking a tip from Griffith and other wise pitchers like Bender, Mathewson and Plank, I have left off giving them such morsels at all stages. If I have a comfortable lead, I slow up. They make cans for the other twirlers, why shouldn't they for me?"

When he slows up, he is better than most of them at top speed.

STALLINGS' BID OF $25,000 FOR JOHNNY EVERS

pole street grounds if satisfactory terms can be arranged, he said.

Evers and Stallings have already talked things over at length, and each knows the other's hearts desires. And both appeared happy and smiling after the interview. Inferentially then, things are now look mighty good for the Braves.

The National baseball Commission may decide, if it declared to uphold Evers' view of his contracts and declare him a free agent, in this event Gaffney and Stallings would like to battle for him.

Brooklyn and Philadelphia are after Evers, and it is reported that Cincinnati be in the hunt. President Frank Farrell of the New York Americans says he will offer as high or higher than anyone else in an effort to secure the second of the Yankees. The White Sox also wouldn't mind Evers in their batting order.

MAY MAKE MURPHY PAY.

The National Commission may force President Murphy to pay the full amount called for by the balance of Evers' three-year contract as a player and manager of the Boston club, or compromise with the player, who is one of the best that ever donned the uniform.

Evers has been with the Cubs about half the years that Murphy has been in the old Cub machine, in which the double-play "Tinker to Evers to Chance" became famous. He was made manager last Winter, soon after the release of Frank Chance was announced.

"I will never play for Murphy again, under any circumstances," Evers is quoted as saying. "I have been approached by the Federals and have held conference with Mr. Ward, but I would rather not join them."

Evers said also he would decide after the city series between the Chicago Americans and Nationals had been won by the former. "It would be my fault with him for being in the company of Jimmy Callahan."

"Who got me on to baseball with the opposition?" asked Murphy." Evers declared. "You've lost $50,000 for me by losing the series."

"I replied by asking him how much did he think I made for him in 1908, when Merkle forgot to touch second? When he said, 'Probably $200,000,' I said, 'Well, that's more than even up.'

LISTEN TO TINKER.

This is what Joe Tinker had to say of Evers just before the Chicago Federal League club manager returned to Chicago from the West Coast City on the way to confer with President Gilmore of the Federals in New York:

"There have been numerous reports about Evers and I are not good friends. It is true that we have not been any more friendly than rival managers of National League clubs are. But I'll show you what I think of Evers by saying this:

"I will gladly step out of the Chicago Federal League Club and take the management of any other club in the Federal League if Evers can be plotted as the Federals' Chicago manager. That don't look like a spirit of unfriendliness, does it?"

President Murphy of the Cubs made the same statement about his star when he fired Evers. In view of the war talk between the Federal League and the magnates of organized baseball Murphy words all the more than he can foster."

Harvard Crimson Defends Athletics

The Harvard Crimson, in its current issue, answers the charges made by Professor Stewart of Idaho and the headmaster of Philip Andover Academy that trickery and deceit are practiced in college athletics. The Crimson does not attempt to prove these charges baseless, but it sees a great move in future and believes that athletics among college teams is rapidly being cleansed.

England Peeved Over Polo Dates

NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—England is peeved over the dates named by the Americans for the international polo cup matches. The Hurlingham officials of England have decided that on Ashby St. Legers endeavored to have the dates changed to Tuesday and Saturday, June 2 and 6.

WHY THE "SPIT BALL" CAN'T BE EXPLAINED

Science discovers that the peculiar behavior of the ball which has puzzled so long, belongs entirely on the laws of physics.

BRAVES HAVE 'EDGE' ON SOX ON HOLIDAYS

Under the new schedules adopted today by the American and National Leagues, the Braves have the "edge" on the Red Sox in holiday games at home. The Braves will have morning and afternoon games in addition on June 17 with the Cubs, on July 4 with the Dodgers and on Labor Day with the Giants. The Red Sox will play here April 26 (Monday, Patriots' Day) with the Athletics and May 30 with the Senators.

Independence Day and Labor Day are better drawing days in Boston than Memorial Day and the Braves take both of them this year. The two local holidays, Patriots' Day and Bunker Hill Day, are evenly divided.

The Red Sox will open the season April 14 at Fenway Park with the Senators from Washington.

The Braves open the season April 14 at Braves Field, where they will play four games. Then they go to Philadelphia for four games, after which the return to Boston and entertain Brooklyn, New York and Philadelphia, in that order, for four games each. They then go over to New York for a four-game series beginning May 7.

After that series they begin their first Western trip, starting May 12 at Pittsburgh. After one game at the Smoky City they go to Cincinnati for four and then return to Pittsburgh for the remaining three games of the series. Chicago and St. Louis follow, in that order. On the way back the Braves stop at Philadelphia for another series, which will include Memorial Day. Then they play a series at Brooklyn and return home to open the first Division of the Western clubs, which begins with Cincinnati June 9.

The Braves will stay home up to and including July 6, entertaining, in order, Cincinnati, Pittsburgh, Chicago, St. Louis, New York, Philadelphia and Brooklyn. The Cubs are here June 17 for two games. The Dodgers are here Independence Day. The Braves begin their second Western trip July 8 at Chicago, after which they play at St. Louis, Cincinnati and Pittsburgh. They are home again July 23, meeting the Cubs here in a series beginning that day. St. Louis, Pittsburgh and Cincinnati follow.

The team goes away again August 13 for New York. From New York they go to Cincinnati to begin the third Western trip August 17. Pittsburgh, Chicago and St. Louis follow. On the way back they play four games at Philadelphia. They return in time to entertain the Giants in a series beginning Labor Day. Philadelphia, Brooklyn, St. Louis, Pittsburgh, Cincinnati and Chicago then play here in order. On September 26 the Braves begin a series at New York, after which they go to Brooklyn to end the season where they began.

In addition to the holidays here—June 17, July 4 and Labor Day—and one trip each from home, May 30, the Braves will play four Sunday games in the West.

Select Bay State Racquet Title Team

Massachusetts will be represented in the inter-city squash racquet championship matches, to be held in Philadelphia Friday and Saturday, by one of the strongest teams in history. The party, which leaves here late today, will consist of Captain Harold Blanchard, Tennis and Racquet Club; C. Hutchins, B. A. A.; E. Agassiz, 2d, and R. C. N. W. Cabot, 2d, and R. C. S. F. Rhodes, B. A. A.; J. H. Parker, 2d, and C. R. H. Crimpton, B. A. A., and Coach Johnny Reynolds, B. A. A. Hutchins will also play in the individual matches for the national title.

LANCASTER, Pa.—Harry Hoffman, who test season ran off with Hartford, Ct., has been appointed as manager of the Reading Tri-State baseball team.

NEW HAVEN.—Spring baseball practice at Yale will start today. Coach Bates have a divided his squad, all of the squads being guided according to 1910. Eight men who were on last year's team will report for practice.

NEW YORK.—The International League magnates have appointed a committee to confer with the National Baseball Commission with a view to having sleeping car accommodations provided for the National and American League to draft players from the minor leagues.

BASEBALL NEWS AND NOTES

CHICAGO.—Eight athletes in the ranks of the Federal League players have been announced as the result of a contest to find the best all-round athlete in the league. No names have been given out as it was observed by the managers that ten of the athletes were big league players and that the remaining six were from the American Association.

BROCKTON.—Bobbie Cleveland, of this city, last year with the Old Gray Mill League baseball club, has received a contract from President Frank of the Lynn club, but has not signed it as he is not satisfied with the terms.

NEWARK, N. J.—"Jack" Farrell, who started baseball second base for the Providence Grays when they were baseball champions in 1884, is now living in Harrison, N. J.

Although the Boston Braves will have to play in the National League series, the Oxford team of Lynn will be able to some two of the four points.

Oxford rolled 615 in the second string series of the Lynn Y. M. C. A. Duckpin League, and the Oxford team's total of 1,842 for the three strings was also high for the night.

Hyde and Hutchings did the high scoring for Oxford, the former getting a total of 372 and the latter 370. Oxford has won 11 and lost 3 games, to date.

The Bon Ami team, Chelsea and Lynn, did not work for B. A. A., but it all went for naught, as the Central Club of Dorchester took all four points from the Unknown bowlers and the Bon Ami team is now tied with Oxford for the Bailey Club of Roxbury.

Corbett and the Postoffice League in its weekly series, the latter scoring 2,787 being some few pins better than any other team in the organization could show.

Kimball was the main factor in Malden's great 2,779 over Cottage in the Mystic Valley League Kimball rolled 347 of the total.

The bowlers of the Adams House defeated the Lynn Y. M. C. A. Young Men's House in a special match by three-four pins.

BOWLING FACTS AND COMMENT

Tonight the Old Timers will again be the guests of B. B. Dean at Bowlers' Jersey Street alleys, and Manager Dean has invited a number of guests to be present, a very interesting meeting is the old guard, who made bowling what it is today. The following stars, of former days will appear: Bob Joy, Bob Mc-Leod, Ray Dunbar, Al Wagner, Pete Sass, Jack Cleary, Frank Wilbur, Jack Hurley, Harry Dean, Jim Wilbur, Fred Lewis, Harry Dean, Jerry Scanlon, Jack Wilbur, A. Tabbo, Frank Lee, Jack Potter, Peggy Flaherty, Wilbur Young, Ann Hurley, Frank Hyde, Charlie Lynch, William Peyton, Col. Goodman, and others whose names are out of mind, their appearance at the Old Timers' gatherings.

Although it rolled for a total of 1,679 in his match against Southern Boston in the Atlantic Pin League series, the Oxford team of Lynn was defeated by the Southern Boston team.

Ryan and Hutchings did the high scoring for Oxford, the former getting a total of 372 and the latter 370. Oxford has won 11 and lost 3 games, to date.

The Bon Ami team, Chelsea and Lynn, did not work for B. A. A., but it all went for naught, as the Central Club of Dorchester took all four points from the Unknown bowlers and the Bon Ami team is now tied with Oxford for the Bailey Club of Roxbury.

GEORGE E. PHAIR SAYS:

BRANCH RICKEY IS OPPOSED TO SWEARING.

It is well to keep from swearing though you have your ups and downs,
But I fear that you will falter when you try to run the Browns.

We'd hate to think of what would happen if the building inspector were placed the kibosh on the St. Louis Fed park were to take a slant at some of the big leagues' autedilluvian stadiums.

Bill Haridon is reported to be about to sign with the Browns. His only request is that them Giant base runners haven't jumped to the Feds.

Speaking of jumping, we'll bet that an ordinary insurance agent, if given half an hour's time, could induce King Cole to sign with seven separate and distinct leagues.

If Snowy Baker can only persuade a flock of our white hopes to emigrate to Australia we shall start a petition to wish a Curaegie medal on him.

The report that Orvie Overall will join the Feds leads one to suspect that an Overall may be a jumper after all.

POPULAR SONGS.

(Ed Hamel to Cozy Overall)

I only thought at first it was a waggling of your jaw;
I didn't think that you would go and fall.
But since you say that joy will join the Federals I have saw
That an overall's a jumper after all.

Red Doolin rejoices greatly over the fact that Bobby Byrne has signed but if Bobby had signed with the Feds, Mr. Doolin would have said: "Ha! Ha! I would have sold him to the miners, anyhow."

It is said that Ad Weignat has given up hope of fighting Willie Ritchie, but no two every lightweight.

There will be no radical changes in the football rules this year. If there were the public wouldn't recognize the get darn game.

If it weren't for this Federal League stuff Lieg Cole would be working in a tonsorial bazaar and wondering whether he would be able to scrape through the year as a yank.

WE'D CALL IT A DRAW.

HOCKEY NOTES AND GOSSIP

The Harvard hockey team left Boston today on the 1 o'clock train for New Haven to battle with the Yale team in the second game of the series tonight. The squad included Coach Wendell Baggs, Captain Armitage Peirce, Sears, Clark, Hopkins, Phillips, Claflin, Captain Wright, Carleton and Goodwin.

Harvard is considered the favorite over Yale tonight, but the Crimson has a nill to a they have handed hockey in order to prove it wrong. In the last contest Harvard was forced to go in two extra five minute sessions before winning.

"Steve" Hopkins was the hero of the last Harvard-Yale game by the score of 2 to 1, and he will be watched with interest tonight. Hopkins scored all four goals in the game.

The Boston Athletic Association hockey team has signed to play the St. Nicholas team of New York on February 28. The game will be originally dated the New York team when it played here.

Frankie Downing, the clever Somerville High star, is a candidate for the position of goal tender on the Harvard team. Downing is also a candidate for the Somerville team. He is of red a substitute on the Harvard team. He has played in all games to give the Red and Blue seven the victory.

BOSTON TAKES A HAND IN THE WARS

By MOYNAHAN

MAJOR LEAGUES MAY BUY PEACE FROM FEDERALS

By FRANK G. MENKE.

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—Plans are under way to end the baseball war and to take the Federal League into organized baseball, it was learned here today from an authentic source. The coincidental presence of President James E. Gilmore of the Federal League and Wilbur Walker and Charles G. Weeghman of the Chicago Federals on the day when the directors of the National League held a meeting to consider proposals made in the Indianapolis conference is expected to result this way.

The three Federal league magnates came to New York at the request of the National Commission to submit a compromise proposition. It was then learned that the peace move was known a secret not long will be found in a few days with representatives of the following great baseball powers: National league, American association, International league and Federal league.

At this meeting the proposition of admitting the Federal league to organized baseball and other considerations is to be settled. Magnates who are here to attend the National League meeting began to get it that the baseball world was sore at the baseball war and that the Federal League has lost about one-half million dollars since the season began. The Federal league has also suffered heavy losses from increased salaries and other expenditures necessary to meet the disbursements of the Federal leaguers.

Pitcher Crabtree of the Philadelphia Nationals, who was released to Baker to the Indianapolis team by the Federals had to do watering with the Quaker City team.

John K. Tener's four-year contract as head of baseball's National league will not be renewed, it is reported here today. The following are mentioned as candidates: Byron, Orth, Klem, Bescher, Quinlan, Evans and Johnson, all from the Three I league.

President Harrington of the American association declared today that the baseball organization had compiled many players.

The National league magnates have appointed a committee to confer with the National league relative to the proposition with a view to having abolished the rule forbidding clubs of the National and American leagues to draft players from the principal minor leagues.

RILEY'S SPORT GOSSIP

CHARLEY COMISKEY is a wonderful baseball manager. He has been getting the best out of his players for a long time. He has won pennants and world's championships. He has made money. He has been a good fellow and a popular citizen in the same time. In these days, when baseball managers have become cranks and are successful only when they are cranks, Comiskey has done a world of good for baseball. He is a credit to the game. He is a credit to baseball. He is a credit to baseball, because he is baseball, having come up through the minor ranks, and he knows baseball.

"CY" MAY was called the greatest of the world's baseball players. He was a great pitcher, but he was not a great baseball player. He was a great pitcher, but he was not a great baseball player. He was a great pitcher, but he was not a great baseball player.

CHARLEY COMISKEY is one of the finest baseball men I have ever known. He is a great baseball man. He is a great baseball man. He is a great baseball man. He is a great baseball man. He is a great baseball man.

What a Woman Deserves

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

DURING their courtship a man treats his sweetheart as if she were a child, whose ignorance of responsibility is what attracts him. After marriage, he demands that she be a woman grown, with shoulders broad enough to bear a woman's burden, and an understanding that that is her portion.

He never learns that much which goes wrong is due to his insane beginning.

A man who signs himself "Perplexed," writes:

"After having been in business for some time, I have commenced to keep company with a young woman five years my junior, and have developed a great affection for her which I have reason to think is returned.

"But now I find that my business is not progressing fast enough, at least, not as expected, and I do not know just when I will be in position to think seriously of marriage.

"Now, what I wish to know is, would it be proper for me to explain my position to my friend, whose sterling qualities would quickly gain her other admirers, or shall I say nothing? I love her dearly."

Say nothing? Certainly, if you class her among the simple and feeble-minded! Stop paying her any attention without the explanation due her if you think she is still a child, but if you have the sense of a grown man and realize that she has the brain and sympathies of a woman and is neither a baby nor a doll, go to her and tell her the truth and the whole truth, beginning with the statement that you love her. That statement will always result in a woman taking a chair, eager to hear the rest.

There can be but one result: An appeal to a woman's understanding always gives her a better understanding.

"You have a brain in your head and will understand what I am trying to tell you" is what makes intelligent thinking women of young girls.

"You are just a nice, pretty child, and I don't want your foolish little head bothered with business," is what makes young girls develop into the smirking figureheads of society who are only saved by their social position from being classed as idiots.

They were once the fashion in femininity. There was a time when the ideal woman was as incapable of thinking as is the miniature sugar bride on top of a wedding cake, but the day is past and gone, and the man of today who treats a woman as if she were still of that period belongs away back there with the yesterdays.

Don't be of that number, Mr. Perplexed. Give your sweetheart credit for having a brain, and talk to her of your hopes and your prospects as if she were an intelligent being. Her sympathy will help you over the rough places. Her faith in you will give you the courage to make today develop into a brighter tomorrow.

And, best of all, Love will have had its way.

He Never Erred Again

"Now, look for the colonel, because he's coming to inspect the post," said the sergeant, as he marched off, leaving O'Brien doing his first outpost duty.

Very full of his own importance and responsibility, O'Brien took his stand.

After an hour the sergeant returned.

"Colonel been here yet?" he asked.

Receiving an answer in the negative, the sergeant went away and returned an hour later with the same inquiry.

At last the colonel did appear; and O'Brien, in his relief at seeing some one after his long vigil, forgot all about his instructions.

"Do you know who I am?" sternly asked the superior officer, noticing that the private had omitted to salute.

"Shure, an' I don't at all!" answered the grinning recruit.

"Well, I am the colonel."

"Begorra, you'll catch it, then!" remarked Erin's son. "The sergeant's been askin' twice for ye already!"

Too Much

On the occasion of a Mayoral banquet in a small English provincial town one of the guests to leave went to the cloakroom for his coat and hat. He couldn't help noticing the woe-begone look on the attendant's face. The poor man appeared worried and sad, and every little while he sighed and muttered to himself.

"You seem upset," remarked the guest, sympathetically.

"I am upset, sir," said the attendant.

"What is the trouble? Haven't the guests tipped you well tonight?"

The attendant answered in an excited voice:

"It's not only sir, that they haven't tipped me, but they've taken the shilling that I put in the tray for a decoy."

"His Proposals"

No. 3—To the girl who tangoed like an angel.

By NELL BRINKLEY

OUT from under the wing of his Alma Mater, the boy with the waxed heart and no mother, grown older a little and leaner, hustled all day in the offices of a grim and grizzled friend of his father's, and flew about at night in the cricket-lively fashion of young chaps to dinners and dances and all the shows. His world was as vari-peopled now as a rainbow is colored. He didn't think so often of his mother now, and lean babyishly and pathetically toward any woman with the mothering touch and the "little boy" tone in her voice. The world touched him on all sides now—Beacon street at one tweed elbow, Boylston street brushing his gay side, and the casuals of the crooked, jumbled "poor" streets rubbed sometimes against his very heart; instead of the rows of boards with their rows of fellows, like trenchmen in the hall of a knight's demesne—all with the same cut of hair and trouser—most of them yet unmarked by personality to the gazer who slips a quick eye over them. He dined now sometimes at a table where the necklace of people about it was a chain whereon each was a different stone—an artist, a lawyer perhaps, a woman who made fairy stories that came straight from Gnomeland, a famous surgeon, a politician, a suffragette, a debutante, a woman who sang, and a man who dug canals! His blonde head was a little bewildered sometimes and always alert and intent—and so—and so—he did not think so often of his mother now and his busy eye passed lightly over "mother women" and did not falter worshipfully there!

And so he dined and danced when he played. But mostly he danced—oh, danced very hard. He was glad when it was a costume dance and there would be no collar. "Three collars a night will from around me like melting snow," he whispers to his hostess. This to a third—"It's fresh—now will you dance with me?" Out of the woods of ancient Greece the dancing God must have sent a magic piping, for something had gotten into the silent, eager young legs of the "chap with the heart of butter," for he went dance mad. He one-stepped and he tangoed and he lame-ducked and he castle-walked every living minute he wasn't eating and hustling, except the stingy little space he was lost in the deeps of dreams. And along with the "dance" came a girl who "COULD!" And he went mad about them both together. A girl with feet like silver thistledown blown on the wind, a body like a reed swaying in the wind, cheeks danced into crimson, tireless, always smiling, silent when she danced as people who love music are sometimes, while a violin sings, velvet black hair. "And she dances like an angel," thought his whirling blonde head on his pillow. "She could dance on whipped cream and never leave a trail!" And they danced down the nights together—in perfect rhythm—always together. And one night while the music flared out in the lilting bars of "Manana" and the dancers flowed like rippling water, by the foot of the stairs where he had coaxed her, his heart alight with the beat of the dance, he proposed! "You're the best dancer—I—I know—please dance with me always, d—dear." She was a little frightened and awfully sincere, but there was "another" fellow out West "on the coast!"

"I've got an awful pain in my chest," he whispered to his pillow that night under the fading stars.

"She tangoes like an angel!"

—NELL BRINKLEY

Daysey Mayme and Her Folks

By FRANCES L. GARSIDE.

IT is Lysander John Appleton's opinion that the foundation of the liking of his wife and daughter for warlike prose and poetry lies in the reiteration of the number of times the soldiers were told to "charge it."

They "charged" to the right, and they "charged" to the left, and in one particularly inspiring poem they "charged the six hundred."

"We have never," lamented Daysey Mayme, "charged that much to Father at one time, yet he is always complaining of the size of the bills."

"We have to see that he has credit at all the stores," argues his wife, "to keep his credit good. Now, what would people think of him if his wife and daughter went around paying cash!"

Strengthened by this argument, and which is unanswerable when uttered by noble woman, the Appleton women folks haunted all the stores, first to secure credit for Lysander John, and then, by purchasing that which they did not need and could not afford, to make his credit good, and the results were bills usually beginning with abbreviations that looked like the hieroglyphics followed by line after line with the simple word "Do" written on, which Lysander John, in his ignorance, thought must mean an attempt to "do" him, but which his wife and daughter interpreted as "ditto."

"Charge it" comes as naturally to the lips of his wife and daughter as "Da-da" or "Ma-ma" comes to the lips of a babe. It is as if Mrs. Appleton and Daysey Mayme were French dolls, and every time they entered a store some clerk rushed forward with an armful of goods, and punched them in the middle, and immediately, "Charge it," fell in mechanical precision from their lips.

It is not surprising, therefore, that this tendency to charge everything to Lysander John has at last added humiliation to his financial distress. They were at a dinner party. One of those affairs so exceedingly proper that the wine took on the color of a stained glass window in a church and every sentence was breathed like a prayer. The bishop, in unctuous tones, had told of an incident in a charge he had two years before, and the word "charge" had set Mrs. Lysander John's mind off on an absentminded trail.

"We found the babe in a basket at my vestry door one morning," said the bishop, "and I will never rest till I find the man at whose door to lay the charge."

"Charge it," murmured a woman's voice above the stillness that followed, "to my husband, Lysander John Appleton."

Do You Know That—

The Federal Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce has issued a report showing that the official indebtedness of all the governments of the world totals $40,000,000,000. This is an increase of 20 per cent. in the last ten years, and double the indebtedness of forty years ago. The heaviest burden of debt is borne by the following countries in the order named: France, Russia, the United Kingdom, Italy, Spain, India, Japan, Germany and the United States.

A convict who escaped from jail at Lydenburg, South Africa, was captured on a farm where he was masquerading as a policeman in search of himself.

Telephone operators in Egypt are required to speak English, French, Italian, Greek and Arabic.

In St. Petersburg no outdoor musical performances are permitted.

A clever American has invented an electric motor roller skate. It is actuated by a motor at the back of the skate, but it has the drawback that the skater must carry in his hands or on his back a pair of rather heavy accumulators to supply the current.

RESINOL STOPS ITCHING EASILY

Why Suffer With Skin Humors When You Can Heal Them So Quickly?

Don't stand that itching eczema torment one day longer. Go to the nearest druggist and get a jar of Resinol Ointment and a cake of Resinol Soap. Bathe the affected parts well with the soap and hot water. Then dry and apply a little Resinol Ointment.

The torturing itching and burning stop instantly, you no longer have to dig and scratch, sleep becomes possible, and healing begins. Soon the ugly, tormenting eruptions disappear completely, and for most cases Resinol Soap (25c.) and Resinol Ointment (50c. and $1) are signally effective for pimples, blackheads, dandruff, sores and many forms of piles. Prescribed by doctors for the past fourteen years and sold by druggists everywhere. Resinol, in the United States, For trial size, write to Dept. 41-R Resinol, Baltimore, Md. Don't be deceived by preparations similar in name or appearance. Refuse substitutions which such dealers can make only for a few cents extra profit—at your expense.

What Thin Folks Should Do To Gain Weight

Physician's Advice For Thin, Undeveloped Men and Women

Thousands of nervous, thin people, including scrawny women and flat-chested girls who, having tried cod liver oil emulsions, "fat foods" and physical culture stunts and found them worse than useless, are now using abbildinum and think nothing will make them fat. Yet they are not hopeless. A recently discovered regenerative force makes fat grow after years of thinness. It is also unequalled for repairing the waste of sickness or nervous exhaustion and for strengthening nerves. This remarkable discovery is called Sargol. Six strength are in Sargol, a tiny tablet form. Its knowledged merit now being demanded by thousands of men and women who, in endeavoring to secure Sargol, have become victims of substitution. Druggists everywhere, if requested, will supply Sargol, but if any druggist hesitates to do so, a full size package should promptly be sent you by mail. Within a month's time, if Sargol does not increase your strength, clear your complexion, improve digestion and by supplying health-building blood to the nerves, increase nourishment to the tissues, so that you can put on flesh in natural form that twice pounds more than you ever weighed before, simply return empty package and druggist will refund your money without question. Sargol comes in two forms, one for men and one for women, and is sold by druggists everywhere. Price, $1 per package. Sargol Laboratories, Buffalo, N. Y.

A guarantee of absolute satisfaction with the prompt refunding of the purchase price will be given by the Sargol Laboratories, Buffalo, N. Y., to any reader of this paper who writes them at once.

LATEST STOCK MARKETS

By W. H. ROSS, Financial Editor

Stocks were higher this afternoon, taking lists as a whole, but business was on a small scale and the improvement was largely due to professional purchases by traders because of the approach of a holiday. Markets in fact, reflected the recent extension of the short interest.

Gains in New York included Canadian Pacific ¾, Missouri Pacific ¾, Reading ¾, Lehigh Valley 1, American Telephone and Telegraph ¼, Iron and Steel ¾, Amalgamated ¾, American Smelting ¾, Baltimore & Ohio ¾, Union Pacific ¼, Southern Pacific ¼, Great Northern ore ½ and trusted Steel Car 1. New Haven was off ¾ and Rock Island ¼ each.

In Boston New Haven was off ¼ and Boston & Albany ¾, while United Fruit has attained a point. Elevated also showed a fractional lower. Among mines there were fractional gains for Butte & Superior, Calumet & Arizona, Osceola and North Butte

QUIET AND IRREGULAR.

The New York market was quiet and irregular at the afternoon setting little attention from outsiders and with transactions almost wholly of a professional character. The price changes were small and distributed just little except the shifting of trading positions. The anti-Attorney-General McReynolds is going to immediately push suit for dissolution of the southern Pacific-Central Pacific merger was a disappointment to bulls who hoped that the State of California business now made at Washington would mean a speedy decision of Justice to delay action, if not allow the roads to come to some terms with it less drastic than complete separation. Southern Pacific receded fractionally in earliest trading, but did not weaken much and soon recovered part of its loss.

WIRE ISSUES HIGHER.

American Telephone and Western Union, which were weak yesterday, got better support and made good gains this morning. Rock Islands were firm, there being an understanding that inside interests have been accumulating these issues at recent low prices. It is expected that a reorganization plan will be decided upon soon by the committee having the matter in hand. Considerable steadiness is expected for both common and preferred. Among tractions Third Avenue was strong, selling at 45 soon after the start.

EUROPEANS BEARISH.

Americans were irregular in London and the fluctuations in both were so small and meaningless as in New York. The London market was affected by uncertainty engendered by the fight in Parliament over the home rule. It is reported that there is a disposition on the Continent to sell American issues because of the bills regarding Rock Islands. Bear reports are getting more credence in Europe than at home. There was a heavy seller in New York yesterday of Union Pacific. Copper sales for this side are always received with some scepticism abroad.

MARKET WAS DULL.

Trading was dull through the forenoon and later first hour transactions being less than 60,000 shares.

The price range was higher at the end of the first hour and among the issues Texas Co. was strong. It had gained a point during the forenoon. Central Leather now is specially to develop strength. Northern Ore and Pressed Steel Car showed more than a point. There was a disposition on the part of traders to cover, as they did not care to remain short over a holiday.

New York Central gained a point upon the inference the tarriff agreements had been made to care for transportation of its tonnage which matures next month and in April, but by afternoon it has lost all its gain and was selling at 93.

By noon American Sugar was up 2, Lehigh Valley 1 and Delaware Lackawanna and Pacific 1, while Steel and almost all active issues were fractionally higher. But business did not increase upon the rise.

AMERICAN WOOLEN WEAK.

There was no activity to stocks here and the local market presented few features of interest. The tone was fairly firm. American Woolen preferred was weak, declining 2 during the morning, while Mexican Consolidated sold at 13, an advance of 1 overnight. American Telephone gained nearly a point and Massachusetts Gas preferred declined one. Most changes were fractional, and small.

FINANCIAL NEWS IN BRIEF.

London copper warrants were unchanged this noon and that market steady.

During the last 1913 quarter the Shannon Copper Company treated 58,336 tons of Shannon ore and 16,281 tons of ore from the company's outside properties, and produced 2,463,83 pounds of copper, 588 ounces of gold and 25,536 ounces of silver.

THERE'S BIG MONEY In Canned Pineapples

IF YOUR MONEY is earning small fixed rates of interest—and you want it to earn a big income—here is a safe Investment Opportunity based upon a food product enterprise.

As a result of two years of development we own a large pineapple and grapefruit plantation on the Isle of PINES, and since last July have been shipping pineapples. We are now ready to build and equip our

and for this reason—AND THAT REASON ONLY—we offer a limited number of shares of Capital Stock upon TERMS TO SUIT

THERE ARE NO GROUND-FLOOR INVESTMENTS OR "TEMPTING BAITS" IN THIS FORM OF BONUSES. THERE IS NO PREFERRED STOCK OR BONDS. THE OFFICERS ARE MEN OF BUSINESS EXPERIENCE. The upkeep of the plantation is financed by the sale of profit-sharing certificates, being sold successfully on the monthly payment plan. It is a close corporation and not overcapitalized—just a plain, common sense, safe plan to make

which should increase in almost unbelievable proportion as the years go by. Literature showing photographs of the property, references and financial statement will be sent upon application. IF YOU ARE INTERESTED IN MAKING MONEY, NOW IS THE TIME. YOU SHOULD WRITE FOR PARTICULARS AND DECIDE BEFORE THE OPPORTUNITY HAS PASSED. ADDRESS

ISLE OF PINES COOPERATIVE FRUIT CO.
P. J. EVANS, Treasurer and Manager. Kimball Bldg., 18 Tremont St., Boston

"I Am the Father of Only ONE of the Twins"

So Said an Ignorant Laborer. A Clever Writer Thought It a Joke, but It Is a Most Serious and Widespread Superstition

Copyright, 1914, by the Star Company

The Item of Sunbury, Pennsylvania, publishes the following:

"Tonis Sebic, brought before the court at Lewistown, Thursday, to answer the charge of non-support of his wife and a pair of twins, startled the court and convulsed the audience when he asserted he was father of only one of the twins."

A bright young writer in Chicago, Mr. Taylor, prints the above paragraph under the heading, "Nature Faker." Mr. Taylor thinks, as probably many did, that it is a FUNNY paragraph.

But it is not funny at all—it is serious and unpleasant, on the contrary.

If the crowd in the courtroom had not been as ignorant as the accused laborer it would not have been "convulsed with laughter" when the accused man said that he was the father of only ONE of the twins in his family.

A very ancient superstition is revealed in this court proceeding.

There are millions of ignorant men like the one in this case, and entire tribes and nations in which it is believed that the birth of twins means that THE DEVIL IS THE FATHER OF ONE OF THE INFANTS.

Among many tribes of savages the theory is that one man can be the father of only ONE child. When two or more appear at a time the devil is the father of all but one.

Among certain people, not entirely savage, it is customary to kill twins always, in order to make sure that the devil's child is destroyed.

And among certain savages, when twins or triplets are born, the children and the mother as well are put to death—to discourage bad behavior.

When the ignorant workingman, accused of failure to support his wife, declared that he was the father of only one of the twins, he startled a modern court by saying that which is the belief today of millions—an interesting fact to consider.

We do not wish to resemble the man with the long white whiskers at the funeral. You know that when nobody would get up to say a kind word for the corpse, this old gentleman arose slowly and said that as long as the corpse had no friends present HE would like permission to say a few words about the single tax.

But this case of the laborer who repudiates one of his twins as not his own child COMPELS us to say a few words about woman suffrage.

Does not this superstition of the ignorant laborer and the lower savage or half-civilized man shed a dreadful light on the conditions under which women have struggled in this world?

Think of the miserable woman, condemned to bear and rear the family of a half-savage man. Think of her, cursed in her misery with the birth of twins or triplets, and then put to death on the ground that the devil must be the father of one of her children.

Realize that thousands upon thousands of women have been murdered for this CRIME. And have been compelled meekly to consent to the brutality—because laws and rules have been made by men.

We rarely find now the suggestion that a woman should be murdered for being the mother of twins. And a court is "convulsed" when an ignorant man says that only one of the twins is his own.

But, with the laws that men make and enforce, and with the industrial conditions created by men today, women lacking prosperity are about as miserable as they were in the days when everybody believed that one twin always was the devil's child.

We work women harder than we work men.

We pick out the old women to scrub the office floors at night—they can't help themselves—they must take what they can get. A white head bowed over a scrubbing brush seems to us a perfectly natural thing.

Young girls, eight years old, working out their lives in a factory seem quite natural to the lawmakers of certain States.

And the working of girls, fourteen, fifteen and sixteen years old—the age when they should not work UNDER ANY CIRCUMSTANCES—seems perfectly natural to almost every civilized being in the country.

The difference between murdering a woman rapidly on the ground that the devil is the father of one of her twins, and murdering her slowly on the ground that she is man's political, mental and moral inferior, IS NOT SUCH A VERY GREAT DIFFERENCE.

A Duty

By WILLIAM F. KIRK

It is easy enough for the clever
With their knowledge and nimble minds
To ding a song of endeavor
To a million toiling hinds.
It is easy to prate of the mountain
They scaled for the god Success;
But the foothills low that the plodders know
The clever never can guess.

It is easy enough for Beauty
To gaze at a twisted face
And tell how a love of duty
Means more than a cherub's grace;
But Beauty never was taunted
By a thoughtless lad or lass,
And Beauty never was haunted
By a leer in a looking glass.

It is easy for a giant
To say to the weak "Be brave!"
For his muscles, massive and pliant,
Can win what his mind may crave
But I think that the hardest duty
In this or in any year
Is for Cleverness, Strength and Beauty
To learn why God sent them here.

Life Story of a Yankee Count

By REV. T. B. GREGORY

THE story of Benjamin Thompson, who was knighted one hundred and thirty years ago by the King of England, is one of the most wonderful in the annals of our country. But few lives in the history of the race equal it in thrilling interest and first class romance.

Thompson, better known as Count Rumford, was born in the village of North Woburn, Massachusetts, March 26, 1753. At thirteen, young Thompson was apprenticed to a Salem merchant. Two years later he became a drygoods clerk in Boston, and a little later a schoolmaster at Bradford. At nineteen Thompson quit teaching and married a widow of twice his age. Before the honeymoon was over the Revolution was on the carpet, the "Sons of Liberty" treated the young bridegroom rather roughly, and he sailed for England, where he almost immediately vaulted to high official position, his aggregate salary amounting to more than $20,000.

Taking a trip over to Bavaria, Thompson captivated the Elector, who made him the first man in the State. The confidence was not misplaced, for instantly the whole condition of affairs was changed for the better. The finances of the country were put on a sound basis, the army was rejuvenated, and the multitude of tramps and beggars that had for years been infesting the land, were wiped out as if by magic.

Thompson's work in Bavaria brought him to the notice of the Emperor, who made him Count of the Holy Roman Empire. Remembering the little New England village where he was born, Thompson took the title of "Count, Rumford."

A many-sided man was the Yankee Count. In this respect our country has produced but one man who can be compared with him—Benjamin Franklin.

Brilliant as a star, he was at the same time intensely practical. Ever busy with the study of subjects recondite and transcendental, he was never for a moment unmindful of the common affairs of earth. He founded the Royal Institution. He was the originator of the idea which, under General Booth, resulted in the "Salvation Army." Thompson died at Auteuil, France, in 1814, at the age of sixty-two, and was buried in the now disused cemetery about which will ever hang the glory and romance of the life-story of the Yankee Count.

The Dollars and Cents Relation Between the Employer and the Employe—It Makes the Former Meaner and Degrades the Man Who Works for Him.

By DR. C. H. PARKHURST

THERE is a debt which employers owe to employes which cannot be met by the mere payment of weekly or monthly wages. If I give my time, my talent, my thought and my interest to my employer, and I ought to do that if I am a sincere employe, then nothing which he can give me in the shape of dollars, no matter how many, will perfectly cover his indebtedness to me.

This mere dollars and cents relation between the two classes is ruinous. It makes the employer meaner and degrades the man that works for him. It makes the one a slave-driver and the other a chattel.

And it is just as true in the higher as in the lower lines of service. I have not forgotten an instance of this kind that occurred in my own experience, although it happened almost forty years ago. It came on a Sunday in the country. I had preached as well as I knew how, one sermon in the morning and one in the evening. It had not occurred to me to think of myself as a hireling, although I had assumed that there would be a certain amount of compensation.

At the close of the evening service the treasurer of the church stepped up, and laying two bills on the pulpit, remarked, "There is your money." It was a chiller, and made the air inside almost as cold as the ten-degrees-below-zero atmosphere outside.

The fact cannot be disposed of that purely a money relation between two people is debasing. As soon as the personal idea drops out the mechanical idea enters in. It becomes a kind of slot machine arrangement whereby the employer drops in a certain amount of service and draws out a corresponding amount of some sort of commodity.

It is not fair on either side to treat the other side as being merely a form of apparatus, and the two sides will never get together till there is blood in it as well as coin, humanness as well as machinery.

There are instances where that is the relation, and it elevates both parties. When it is not the relation labor is debased and the laborer goes down with it. There is an inhumanity on the part of any employer who is negligent of the best interests of those who work for him. And that humanity comes to its extreme expression in such an instance, for example, as that in which shopgirls are insufficiently paid and allowed to eke out their salaries by selling themselves body and soul to the highest bidder.

Inspector Dwyer, in a recent interview, printed in the New York Evening Journal, says: "I have questioned hundreds of girls of the underworld, and I find that nine-tenths of them have been forced into the life by economic conditions."

Which, in plain language, means that they receive so small wages that they had to become prostitutes or die.

I recently inquired of one whose position in the New York Police Department makes him an authority upon such matters, whether the rate of wages in what pass as our respectable shops is so low as to compel girls to this means of support. His reply was that in general that is the case, although making exception of one well-known establishment. "But," said I, "do the proprietors realize this?" "Of course they do," said he; "they are intelligent men and they can't help knowing it."

A girl cannot be paid at the rate of seven dollars a week and dress at the rate of twelve dollars without getting the extra five from somewhere. And so these proprietors, instead of interesting themselves in the girls' behalf, as we have just been insisting that they ought to do, and in addition to their wages cherishing for them a care-taking and sympathetic regard, squeeze their wages down to the lowest figure allowed by law of supply and demand and let them go to the devil for enough more to keep themselves out of the poorhouse or the grave.

It is a great play that is coming to the Majestic Theatre next week, entitled "Within the Law."

There is one scene in it that is tremendously effective, and if the Majestic Theatre could one evening be packed with all such employers of labor in this city as pay their girls part wages and leave it to houses of prostitution or rich gallants to supply the balance, there would be some attendants that would go away with pricked consciences, and that would put a new constraint upon themselves and upon the relation they sustain to the unfortunates whom they are pushing toward destruction instead of trying to save them from it.

Our Welcome for the Strangers

By REV. C. F. AKED, D. D.

THE "problem" of the unemployed is acute enough today. What will it be in two or three years? Transportation lines and their agents abroad are scouring Europe for immigrants. Dazzling prospects allure ignorant and undeveloped minds. Hundreds of thousands of men and women are already talking about the world's wealth waiting in the Golden West. Soon their faces will be turned toward our shores. Soon we shall have them upon our hands—and hearts.

What is the best solution the experience of officials enables them to suggest of the "problem" alike of unemployment and of the Americanization of the immigrant?

We do not want these millions to come to us for our good alone. We want them to come for mutual blessing—their good and ours. We wish them to be prosperous, happy, free. We want to see them good Americans, good citizens, good patriots. For their sake and for our own we seek their good.

Farm colonies should be established in States like California. Land should be bought. Employment should be provided for the newcomer. The colony should be a training ground. And it should be a distributing centre. There should be no charity in it. It should come into existence with the idea of being self-supporting.

Three or more tracts of land should be secured in different parts of the State. So far as possible every tradesman should be employed at his own trade, so as to husband his skill. The majority of the immigrants, unskilled laborers, would be in full demand for laying out the ground, introducing public utilities, making roads. Economists calculate that for every person employed upon the land in agriculture five others can be employed in working up the raw material for buildings, clothes and other necessaries.

On an estate of thousands of acres new roads would be required. Villages would grow up. There would be permanent employment for foremen, overseers, men engaged in training the unskillful, and the like. No man need accept work or remain at work in the colony who could find more remunerative work elsewhere. As fast as the organized trades could absorb the trained and skillful workers they would, of their own volition, seek employment, under private enterprise.

Facilities should be granted to churches of all denominations to erect their places of worship. The children should be sent to State schools within the colony; and the teachers should be chosen with a view to their patriotic willingness, to conduct classes of adults, classes for instruction in our language, our history, our ideals, the meaning and value of our institutions and the truths which America has been brought into existence to reveal to our modern world.

CAN A WOMAN OF 40 REALLY FALL IN LOVE WITH A MAN OF 22?

Read "The Dear Fool," the remarkable story of Betty Dunbar and the boy she loves, or thinks she loves, and the man who loves her—Novelized from the play by H. V. Esmond—Begins in the AMERICAN tomorrow.
